ARE YOU A HUNTER? WELL, YOU WILL BE ONE

4666 Residents of St. Louis Are in the Field Now, and the State Is Propagating, Just as Fast as It Can, Game That Everybody Can Hit.

By CLARK M'ADAMS.

I SOMETIMES think the ducks must be extinct,
With seeing nothing since the morning pinked
The somber reaches of the bending sky—
One with the dodo and the mammoth linked.

It is to laugh. Someone has killed them all,
And nothing answers to my plaintive call,
Nor would respond though I should blow a blast
The like of which cost Jericho her wall.

Indeed, a ram's horn would do quite as well,
Or it, for all that, were as well a bell
Or babyrattle that essayed to woo
Some wily mallard with its magic spell.

Yet will I search the wide and vacant sky
And sound anon my supplicative cry—
You cannot tell, you know; perhaps a roc,
A pin-tail or a pterodactyl may come by.

Of such stuff is a born duckshooter made—
Ducks or no ducks shall find him unafraid;
And the crack of doom at last discover him
Duckless, but for all that, undismayed.

For such is luck, and thus does Fortune frown;
But anyway, a day away from town
Is never lost, what with the balmy air,
The change of mind, and—sh! Get down! Get down!

Not yet—not yet! The feed call—chuck-a-luck—
A wood duck—quiet—and her festive buck.
Now, let 'em have it! Boom—ba-room—boom—boo-o-o-o-m!
Missed 'em! —— —— —— —— the luck!

—From "The Duckshooter's Rubaiyat."

Caesar Had Nothing on Duck Hunters.

A COMMUNITY which has so far outgrown the rudiments of field sports that it no longer jokes about buying game or wonders if it is going to get anything has something on most communities in the United States, no matter what the census says.

Such a place is St. Louis. One man in every twenty-five in St. Louis is a hunter. There have been issued at the City Hall this year 4666 hunting licenses. Of these, 1828 were $5 licenses to hunt in the State at large; the other 2838 were $1 licenses to hunt in St. Louis County.

Thus we have in St. Louis approximately 5000 hunters. Half as many men captured Ticonderoga. A much less formidable force divided Gaul into three parts. Fewer men, worse armed, won the independence of Texas, and inferior forces less inured to the hardships of campaigning and easier prey to wind and weather have made a moving picture of the map of the world.

Most of these hunters are in the field today. They sit by still waters, awaiting ducks. They walk the brown fields in quest of quail. They are a bronzed, upstanding, hardy lot, and there is something to be said for their kind of week-end. They get a lot of good air. They exercise. They are hardened by wave, and wind, and rain. It is seldom a hunter does not go hunting because of illness. He knows not illness. Once in a while a particularly long-winded pneumoccus or something of that sort runs one of them down, but not often. It is Time waiting within his blind that bags all of them in the end.

Yes—There Are Cinch H..., Too.

AS St. Louis has more hunters in proportion to her population than any of the other big American cities, so, too, does she represent progress in the sport. The good old days in the field are gone. They afforded better shooting, perhaps; but the sport was probably not so good. The rarity of game has something to do with the sport of bringing it in. Any St. Louis duckshooter, for instance, can board a train tonight and kill his limit of 25 ducks tomorrow in the sunken lands of Southeast Missouri; but that is not altogether what a duckshooter wants. To stand on a point of land and pick out the mallard drakes as a cloud of ducks goes over is not cultivating patience, searching the wide sky, knowing the thrill of a distant speck, or growing soul. That is the difference. "Give us wild ones!" say the sportsmen, meaning by that what you may easily guess.

Closed lands, clubs, business methods and organization have succeeded the open range and free shooting around St. Louis. There is still field for the sniper, but usually not after the farmer sees him. You hunt on your own club grounds, or you run pretty hard all day, followed by from ten to twenty-five farmers. You are glad to get in a club in the end. You not only require rest, but it is pleasant to hunt without being hunted.

It is a great pity that the United States Department of Agriculture does not give Missouri credit for her game products. It would considerably improve her standing. Almost the entire bottom land of northern St. Charles and Lincoln counties makes no pretense to reporting anything but game products. There is the great Cuivre Club, where the Big Cinch cinches the duck shooting just like it cinches everything else in and around St. Louis. There is the Dardenne Club, with its $5000 initiation. There is the Lemp Club, where they shoot ducks on Thursdays and Sundays, and pick them up on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays. There is the Paradise of the week-end duckshooter—clubs without end, lakes beyond number, ducks for a sky, and the dull roar of field arms from sunrise to dusk. If the game products of that part of Missouri were listed with the few bins of wheat, the occasional crib of corn, and the infrequent egg it contributes to what is regarded by the Department of Agriculture as the wealth of the State, Missouri would lead all the states upon "Tama Jim" Wilson's list, no matter how many grapes they grow in New York.

Cold Feet? Tush!

THE Burlington runs up into t... country every Saturday afternoon a hunters' special. Here we have something of the old scenes when the troops went South to free the slaves, and what is decidedly more piquant, here we have the finished product of St. Louis duck shooting. He has something of the temperament of a kind-eyed cow. Nothing disturbs him. He tweedles his thumbs. He is Equanimity. He is Rest. He is Patience. Tomorrow he will sit in his blind. An hour will pass. Nothing. Two hours will pass. Still nothing. Noon will come, but no ducks. Still will he sit and uncomplaining, and when he comes down on the train tomorrow night he will have ducks. It is waiting "as does it."

"Did they fly much?" somebody will ask.

"Fine!" he will say.

The long hours he waited before they came—he will say nothing of that. As a matter of fact, he will have forgotten. All duckshooters forget. It is only the sport that they recall. Cold feet, misery, hunger, fatigue—poof! they are nothing. It is the man, and he may come from any one of the walks of life. Grover Cleveland was that kind of man. So was Ben Harrison. Caeser, Job, Omar and a number of other great figures of the past had the duck shooting temperament. They live well, and they sleep well, as we are told in that immortal quatrain which goes,

"They say the lion and the lizard keep
The courts where Jamshyd gloried and drank deep;
And Bahram, that great hunter—the wild ass
Stamps o'er his head, but cannot break his sleep.

A perfect description of a duckshooter. Hundreds of them just like that went up on the Burlington yesterday afternoon.

Even a Poor Shot Gets Quail.

THE quail season opened last Tuesday. Probably fewer men were on the job in St. Louis last Tuesday than any day in the history of work. Hordes of them ranged through the State. It was nothing to see a column advancing across the side of a hill, guns thrust forward, hammers back, dogs ahead, and clouds of smoke drifting off on the wind. If the quail hunters of St. Louis used anything but small shot about the size of a clover seed the list of killed and wounded in St. Louis County alone last week would have exceeded the fatalities and casualities at the Battle of Buena Vista.

Quail shooting is not so systematic as duck shooting. The difference is that quail occur anywhere, whereas ducks are only obtainable where there is water too shallow for motor boats. Ducks have althogether abandoned the Mississippi River to motor boats. They stick to the lakes and slashes, and whenever they hear the pop-pop that means untiring pursuit and long-distance death, they repair where the water is even shallower still. A great many people who could kill ducks when they were altogether aquatic put in much of their time these latter days cussing the motor boats. They are charged with whooping the ducks through without letting them stop—making them afraid of water—shooting them with bounce-bullets, etc., etc. The motor boat men resent this bitterly. They call their kind of shooting sport, and use invidious terms like decoying ducks in on the end of the gun and shooting them in the face, etc., etc. Not much satisfaction in biting a motor boater. He can bite back like a wildcat.

At any rate, quail occur almost anywhere, and any farm house does for a club house, with the farmer's consent. After that it is comparatively easy to get the game. The farmer has about four boys, all of them eager to shoot quail for the ammunition. You furnish the ammunition. It is pretty hard to hunt on that plan and not get any quail. Even very poor shots are getting them every day. Indeed, a poor shot usually gets more quail than a good shot. He has more men working for him.

Pick Out the Bird You Can Hit.

BUT great institution though it has become in St. Louis, hunting is still in its infancy. This is because there is at present no kind of game which most of the members of the community could hit. Therefore, they do not hunt. There is no use hunting unless you get something, and just at this time if you can't hit quail, ducks, rabbits, wild turkeys, bear or deer, there is nothing in Missouri to get. This is, however, only a temporary condition. It is the intention of the State that there shall be something that everybody can hit, and for this reason the State Game Commissioner, Jesse Tolerton, is propagating in Missouri the following game:

KIND.	Length of Target.	Speed Per hour.
Mexican quail	7 inches	55 miles
Austrian quail	8 inches	60 miles
Mongolian pheasant	28 inches	45 miles
English pheasant	12 inches	65 miles
Long-tailed pheasant	36 inches	30 miles
White Indian floater	38 inches	8 miles
Thibet hen	26 inches	15 miles
Mottled pheasant	20 inches	24 miles
Siberian grouse	14 inches	45 miles
Manchurian skid-bird	28 inches	12 miles

It is expected that when all these birds become plentiful it will be impossible for anyone to go hunting in Missouri without getting something. If you can't hit the Manchurian skid-bird (12 miles), maybe you can hit the white Indian floater (8 miles). Similarly, too, if you are shooting ahead of the Mexican quail (55 miles), you can probably hit the Austrian quail (60 miles), and so on. Or you can shoot for color, if you like. There will be all colors.

The State has $200,000 for this work, not to speak of the money from licenses. There is no other State doing anything like it.

AWFUL DISCLOSURES.

A GENTLEMAN opened a letter addressed to his son, containing suggestions from a friend for a novel which the young man was privately writing.

The father was exceedingly surprised and frightened upon reading the following dreadful words:

"Dear Bob—You really must show more caution in constructing your plots, or the governor will be sure to discover the dead body of Geraldine in the cellar, and then your secret will be out. You consulted me about the strychnine. I certainly think you are giving it him in rather large doses. Let Emily put her mother in a madhouse. It will answer your purpose well to have the old girl out of the way. I think your forgery is far too small a sum. Make it three thousand. Leave the rest of your particularly nice family circle to me. I will finish them off and send you back the 'fatal dagger' afterwards by book post. Yours, "JACK."

PRACTICAL HOUSEKEEPING.

IT was at a class in arithmetic that the following household problem was exactly solved:

"Suppose that in a family of five there were only four potatoes for dinner, and the mother wanted to give each of the children an equal share, how is she going to do it?"

For a few minutes there was silence in the room, while everybody calculated hard. Finally one of the little boys rose to his feet, and after attracting the attention of the schoolmaster, gave this unexpected answer:

"Mash the tatties, sir."

WHY?

WHEN the English tongue we speak
Why is "break" not rhymed with "freak?"
Will you tell me why it's true
We say "new" but likewise "few"?
And the fashioner of verse
Cannot cap his "horse" with "worse"?
"Beard" sounds not the same as "heard"
"Cord" is different from "word";
"Cow" is cow, but "low" is low;
"Shoe" is never rhymed with "foe."
Think of "hose," and "dose," and "lose";
And of "goose" and also "choose."
Think of "comb," and "tomb," and "bomb,"
"Doll" and "roll," and "home" and "some."
And since "pay" is rhymed with "say,"
Why not "paid" with "said," I pray?
We have "blood," and "food," and "good,"
"Mould" is not pronounced like "could,"
Wherefore "done," but "gone," and lone"?
Is there any reason known?

"Well," said the bridegroom-to-be, "I suppose you'll be sorry, Willie, when the time comes for your sister's wedding?"

"Not much!" replied the small brother. "I will gimme an excuse to chunk pa's slippers away."

COMPULSORY RELIGION.

When Bishop Burgess calls for the use of the police power to stop aeroplane flights on Sunday he proposes an application of the Mosaic law of the Sabbath, which is certainly up to date.

Perhaps in the whole history of civilization since the time of Moses, there is nothing better for the health and comfort of a larger number of people than the Mosaic law, which offers one day's rest in seven to a hard-worked world. Yet when Bishop Burgess goes back to Moses as authority for his own belief that aeroplanes on Sunday "hurt morals," he is appealing to modern political compulsion to enforce his own ideas, with no proof that Moses could or would agree with them now, as applicable to aeroplanes or anything else.

If religion does not control "morals" by moral means only, it must undertake to control millions of people in the United States by the compulsion of the police power, backed by the use of the club when a crisis calls for it. However necessary clubs may be in a crisis, they are never religious agencies of moral suasion. They are not religious means of enlightening the ignorant or converting the misguided.

Those who hope to increase their religious influence must turn from compulsion as a means of doing it. In this matter of deciding when, where and how the public is to look at aeroplanes, as in the control of private habits of amusement, of dress, of eating and drinking, complete and final failure awaits the attempt to govern increasing millions of Americans through compulsion on the ground that the compulsion is religious. They have compulsion enough without compulsory religion.

"This isn't a campaign," says Senator Beveridge. "It is a crusade." Beveridge still insists on taking himself seriously.

THE PRIVATE LIFE OF THE DEAD.

Americans who are rich enough to afford the greatest literary luxuries are being invited to bid on a new collection of private letters, ... which 68 are catalogued from Carlyle, 13 from Mrs. Carlyle and 14 from Ruskin. The invitation is alluring to all who feel disposed to revel in the private life of the great and famous. It offers intimacy with the mighty dead, possibly much greater than could have been gained at the keyholes of their bedrooms while they were living.

Many may remember how fiercely Tennyson protested against this, several years before his death. To him those who pry into the secret life of the famous dead seemed much worse than eavesdroppers and little better than ghouls.

Still there is a saving clause, illustrated in Tennyson's case, as it may be now at the expense of the highest bidder for exclusive knowledge of the private life of Ruskin and the Carlyles. Tennyson's own letters were published in a way which suggests that he left them in nice order for posterity. Perhaps while they were still living, the famous dead have never yet neglected to prepare their private letters to be pried into by posterity.

The Chinese are to have a parliament and self-government, and insurgents and stand-patters and other ills, but they have been civilised so long that they probably settled the trust question several thousand years ago.

VOCATIONAL SCHOOLS.

Dr. George Kerschensteiner of Munich, Germany, calls attention to the success of the trade or vocational schools in that city, and urges the desirability of such schools for the United States. He believes that education in trade schools should be compulsory up to the age of 18 and that "instruction should be organized as nearly as possible from the point of view of community of work."

If Dr. Kerschensteiner means by this that the pupils in trade schools of this character should be assigned to trade classes according to the probable need for their services in given trades after they have graduated, the idea is a good one. But it is also open to the objection that it carries with it the idea of state classification of citizens. On the one hand, if pupils are to be permitted to select trades according to their individual preference, certain trades would find themselves flooded with skilled workers, while others might have only few accessions to their ranks to do the work demanded.

Compulsion by the state in regard to individual employment is repugnant to American ideals. But the present lack of system, which educates a worker for a line of work in which there may be too great an abundance of workers, so that starvation instead of competence may be his lot, is not "businesslike."

Perhaps the solution will lie in a thorough system of statistics which will enable the school authorities to give the pupils due notice as to what lines of trade or employment are in need of workers and therefore likely to be most remunerative. The student would then enter other lines at his own risk.

SPECULATION AND POLITICS.

The use of money in politics is always necessary and always dangerous. Those who give large sums for the use of committees can never know, nor do they usually wish to know, how much of what they give is used for control through corrupt means. In the celebrated appeal made by Roosevelt to Harriman the need of controlling the New York election was represented as urgent. It was not assumed, of course, that the large sums of money called for were to be used corruptly, but it appeared afterwards, that the money raised by Harriman represented in part the robbery of the stockholders and beneficiaries of insurance companies, while as a whole, it came from magnates, representing vast accumulations of unearned money, acquired through speculation in "wind and water" or fictitious values.

Under such conditions, if Mr. Harriman were still alive, could his friends urge others to support him for the United States Senate on the ground that he had been a liberal contributor to campaign funds at a time when he was not a candidate for office? It would certainly seem most astonishing if the magnate of a system of turning "wind and water" into wealth, should be urged for the United States Senate on the ground of his liberal use of money in politics. Yet the "Francis Senatorial Campaign Committee" makes its closing appeal for the election of Mr. Francis to the Senate on this very ground.

In the thirteenth and last of 13 numbered reasons for supporting him, it is said that "although during the last 15 years, he never again expected to hold public office, he has always contributed liberally to Democratic campaign funds."

The question of gratitude may be waived. If the senatorship was not expected or asked, when the money was paid, then the fact of the payments as claimed, involves no ground now for an ex post facto claim to the senatorship on that account.

This is a minor point, however. The point at issue in the case of Mr. Francis is the same as it would be in the case of Mr. Harriman. As magnates, both have represented a system which seeks to control both parties, and to use the Government through both parties for controlling the money market. Values in which Mr. Francis has been interested as a grain broker and a stock broker are certainly not less speculative and unreal than those in which Mr. Harriman was interested in floating watered stocks while manipulating railroad systems.

If Mr. Francis represents Wall street's interests and Wall street's methods less extensively than Mr. Harriman did, it is notorious that his great successes do represent these methods and the system into which they are now organized, as it seeks to control business and politics.

If under such conditions, Mr. Francis has been liberal in giving money for political uses, it certainly does not argue his fitness for the United States Senate. It certainly does not constitute a reasonable claim that he or any other magnate of the system, is entitled to sit in person in the United States Senate.

It begins to look as if Mr. Kavanaugh will have to build that deep waterway without the advice and assistance of those adepts in affairs commercial—the army engineers.

A CUMBROUS SYSTEM.

If the Democrats gain the expected majority in the next House of Representatives the only permissible conclusion will be that the people are completely disgusted with the privilege-breeding tariff and so far as our political system gives them the power to condemn, they have condemned it.

But the Congress elected next week will not meet in regular session until a year from the December following. It will be the winter of 1912 before the Democrats can attempt a reduction of the tariff and in doing it they will probably encounter the opposition of a Republican Senate and a Republican President.

What a cumbrous system it is compared with the flexible and responsive ones of England and France, where a rebuke from the people is followed by a speedy reformation of the policy repudiated. To secure a revision of the tariff the people of this country must not only disapprove the Payne-Aldrich law next week, but they must do so more completely in 1912, with the chance that it will be the winter of 1913 before there can be a new law. It will be nearly three years after the first recorded instance of complete dissatisfaction with the law before it can be changed.

Carnegie had never heard of Jack Coombs. Thus we learn of the depths to which the possession of much money sinks one.

TEN THOUSAND LOST FARMS.

While Congressman Nicholas Longworth is nationally important only as a representative of Roosevelt family interests, the definitions of the conditions of Republican harmony he gave at Cincinnati are important because they are typical. Harmony, as proposed for the future, leaves out the condition of the country and deals only with the party and its leadership.

Under the Longworth definition, the Republican party now consists of reactionaries, progressives and radicals or ultra-radicals. The reactionaries are such men as John D. Archbold, Pierpont Morgan and other "money kings," who think themselves entitled to control the party whose campaigns they "finance." The ultra-radicals are Republicans in Iowa, Kansas, Wisconsin and other states who object to government of, by and for money kings.

The Longworth solution, harmonising these differences, is simple. He will accept both reactionaries and radicals as "comrades in arms," under "progressive leadership," with no discrimination against either, if both accept control by the Roosevelt-Taft element of the party.

This is not to be considered as wholly nonsense when he names both President Taft and ex-President Roosevelt as leaders all Republicans, whether money kings or radicals, must accept.

When they are thus joined, Messrs. Roosevelt and Taft must accept responsibility for results, as already recorded, during the 10 years which now represent the period of their political activity.

A typical result of this period is announced in a census bulletin of Nov. 1, 1910, devoted to Iowa. It states that "the total number of farms (in Iowa) dropped during the decade from 228,662 to 216,307, a decrease of 11,815."

These are the exact figures and words of the official announcements of what 10 years of history, represented by Messrs. Roosevelt and Taft combined, means in one item of Iowa radicals and ultra-radicals.

If Iowa radicals and ultra-radicals believe in responsible government, instead of tame submission to party dictators, they are entitled to an immediate explanation. It is a fact, recorded by the census of 1910, that 10 years of control by those who now assert the sole right of leadership, has meant the loss to Iowa of over 10,000 farms. Why?

A Methodist minister from Illinois was held up and robbed of $87—the savings, as we infer from contemporary testimony, of at least 60 years of thrift.

THE JUDICIAL CANDIDATES.

No phase of Tuesday's election is more important than the selection of judicial candidates. The whole fabric of justice and law enforcement rests upon the judiciary.

Fortunately none of the candidates for the State Supreme Court have questionable characters and records. All are good lawyers of good standing. Judge Gantt has had long experience on the bench and Mr. Kennish is regarded as one of the best lawyers in the State and has an excellent record as Attorney-General. He is now on the bench for the remaining term of the late Judge Fox. But Messrs. Brown and Timmonds are good material.

For the Court of Appeals Henry S. Caulfield is a lawyer of ability and good character. He has filled two offices, a term in the House of Representatives and the excise commissionership, with credit. He is now on the bench of the Appeals Court as Judge Goode's successor. The Democratic candidate, Charles W. Bates, is exceptionally well fitted, in character, temperament and equipment, for the bench. His special qualifications for the judiciary are universally acknowledged by members of the bar.

Four of the candidates for the Circuit Court of this city are now on the bench—Judges Daniel D. Fisher, William M. Kinsey, James E. Withrow, Republicans, and Moses N. Sale, Democrat. Of these incumbents Judges Fisher, Sale and Kinsey have the strong indorsement of the local bar association. Of the other candidates, Leo S. Rassieur, Republican; H. Chouteau Dyer, J. Lionberger Davis and Thomas G. Rutledge, Democrats, have the indorsement of the St. Louis Bar Association. They are capable lawyers and good men. William H. Allen, who won in the primaries as an independent Democrat, is an excellent lawyer of good record and repute. Wilson A. Taylor has been active in Republican politics, but has to his credit a good record as Judge of the Court of Criminal Correction.

There should be no partisanship in the judiciary election. Voters should select the best men regardless of party.

The plan to give Gov. Hadley the Republican senatorial nomination by scratching the names of candidates on the ballots seems to remind citizens of both parties that they can vote for anyone for the senatorship. There is no restraint on the pencil.

COST OF LIVING AND WAGES.

The cost of living is a vexatious question. No Republican campaign speaker and no Republican newspaper dares discuss it. Mr. Roosevelt ventured to touch on it in the platform he adopted at Saratoga, but only to say—

> Advances in the cost of living are only the local reflection of a world-wide tendency and cannot truthfully be said to be due to the present tariff.

Frank A. Munsey in the American Economist—the organ of high protection—assumes to explain that high wages make a high cost of living; the tariff makes high wages, but without completing his syllogism he concludes that the cost of living can be lowered only at the expense of wages.

Senator Warner, Missouri's most distinguished stand-patter, has not metioned the cost of living, but he gave the tariff the credit for high wages, having first assumed that wages are high. Wages average $10.06 per week in this country, according to the Census Bureau.

The speeches of Republican campaigners and Republican literature will be searched in vain for anything more illuminating. Asked to discuss the cost of living by a New York paper, Mr. Roosevelt replied: "I am against the dishonest man whether he is rich or poor." When Mr. Stimson was asked the same question he replied by asking whether Mr. Dix believed in betting on horse races. When Senator Depew was asked he replied that the Payne-Aldrich law had been vilified and misrepresented. Gov. Hadley dodges it. Mr. Nagel ducks it. No Republican wants to talk about it.

Congressman Eugene N. Foss, Democratic candidate for Governor of Massachusetts, where reciprocity with Canada shares honors with the tariff and the cost of living as the conspicuous issue, says that living in Canada is one-third cheaper than in the United States. Isn't the world-wide tendency at work in Canada?

The cost of living may be kept out of the campaign speeches, but can it be kept out of the ballot boxes next week?

The fierce rush of Roosevelt to drive the bosses out of the party before the Saratoga convention was not half so heartful as his secret yearning to get them back again.

The people of Illinois hope to get a good, honest Legislature. But they have no means of knowing what it will be until the usual temptations have been offered.

It begins to look as if about a thousand men had started Ananias clubs with the Colonel as the charter and all the rest of the members.

LIARS!

From the Washington Herald.

And the Psalmist said: "I said in my haste, All men are liars."

WET AND DRY MAP OF THE UNITED STATES.

THAT FRANCIS MONEY.

From Saturday's Post-Dispatch.

If the Francis money was given to the Democratic City Committee for the general cause of Democracy and the success of the Democratic ticket, there could be no objection to permitting other candidates to speak for the general cause and their own cause at meetings arranged by the committee.

If the Francis money was given to the City Committee for the purpose of obtaining the exclusive promotion of the Francis candidacy and the committee accepted it on that basis and acted upon it by excluding all other candidates, then the organization is sold to the highest bidder. It submits for a money consideration to the control of the local party organization by the candidate able and willing to pay the price.

These are the terms upon which the City Democratic Committee accepted Francis money. Chairman Fay admitted the committee's discrimination in favor of Francis on account of the Francis contributions to the committee's funds.

This is the first time in the history of Missouri Democracy that money has been used directly and effectively to control the Democratic organization for the purpose of gaining election to the United States Senate.

Upon such plutocratic conditions a Vest, or a Cockrell, or any Democratic leader of the highest qualifications, who is not able to pay the price nor willing to sell himself to others for the money, would be set aside for any man, regardless of his qualifications, who is able and willing to resort to the use of money to obtain the senatorship.

It remains to be seen how many Missouri Democrats will indorse this plutocratic method of controlling the party's choice of United States Senator.

It remains to be seen how many St. Louis Democrats approve the surrender of their party organization to the power of money and the money power.

It remains to be seen how many untrammeled, unpurchasable and unterrified Democrats there are in St. Louis.

VERY DIFFERENT NOW.

From the New York Sun.

Among those who have been witnessing the flying at Belmont Park is a man who used to be one of the editors of an Ohio newspaper. According to his own confession his conscience has been giving him some painful twinges ever since he saw the first aeroplane go up the other day.

"When the Wright brothers were making their first experiments with flying out at Dayton everybody got the notion that they were a couple of cranks," he said. "After the first story or two which described what they were doing, Ohio newspapers outside of Dayton declined to pay any attention to them.

"The Dayton correspondents used to be very active in sending out stuff, but our office, like many others, got tired of receiving it. It got so that standing orders were issued in our office against printing anything about the Wrights. When a story come in about what they were doing it went to the waste basket.

"The city editor when he received a Wright story would shout, 'Another Wright yarn!' and then the office would give a whoop and crowd about as with an impressive gesture the story was flung away. And mind you, this was not as much as ten years ago, either."

DOCTORS PROVED IT.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

A remarkable law case is arousing a great deal of public interest in Constantinople, the facts which have given rise to the action dating back to the palmy days of Sultan Abdul Hamid.

According to the statements now made, while the ex-Sultan was still in power, one of his favorite daughters was found suffering with appendicitis, and an operation was declared to be imperative. The Sultan, however, was unwilling to trust his daughter to the mercy of his physicians and surgeons in such an extremity without first assuring himself of their ability to perform the operation successfully, and he accordingly demanded that they should operate first, in his presence, on someone else.

Seeing that His Majesty was obdurate, the doctors promptly went in search of a victim, and finding at the Italian Hospital a young girl, Josefa Schmeider, who had just been discharged after an illness, they drove her off to the imperial palace, despite her objections, and carried her into the room specially prepared for the operation and removed the appendix, the Sultan calmly watching the proceedings. The operation proved quite successful and the patient recovered and was sent home.

Satisfied that the doctors knew their business, the Sultan then permitted them to operate on his daughter, who also recovered and was completely cured.

Josefa Schmeider is now suing the doctors concerned for damages.

"YOU'VE GOTTA GO 'ROUND."

I.

There are no short-cuts in life, my friend—
You've gotta go 'round.
Or wheresoever the way may wend,
You've gotta go 'round.
Or howsoever the way may tend,
With here a crook and there a bend,
You'll live to learn in the end, my friend,
You've gotta go 'round.

II.

There are by-ways that are more the mode,
But you've gotta go 'round.
There are offshoots tempting to the load,
But you've gotta go 'round.
There are short-cuts many men have strode
That seem to lead to the last abode,
But none of them intersects the road—
You've gotta go 'round.

III.

There are no time-savers through the tall—
You've gotta go 'round.
It's a long and sometimes weary haul,
But you've gotta go 'round.
There are times when the strongest of us fall,
The road is long and the way will pall,
But the long is the sure way, after all—
You've gotta go 'round.

WHERE THE GOOD ABIDE.

Calhoun County, Illinois, has but one erring citizen, and the community is hopeful of reforming him. The Calhoun Herald says:

"Calhoun County's jail is again empty and we earnestly hope it will be a long time before the doors will close on another prisoner. John Seimer, who has been in jail the past four months waiting for court, pleaded guilty to forgery as soon as an indictment was returned, thus saving the county many dollars. John was a model prisoner and it is to be earnestly hoped that he will reform while in the penitentiary this time and lead an honest, upright life when his term expires.

"He has many friends who would be glad to lend a helping hand to him if he decides on an honest life in the future."

CORRECT DIAGNOSIS.

From the New York World.

Two lunatics were passengers in charge of a deputy sheriff on an Ontario & Western train en route to Bloomingdale one day last week. Although manacled to one another at the wrists, each appeared oblivious to the presence of the other as the train rolled on. One occupied himself by gazing through the window at the rapidly changing landscape, while the other seemed interested in his fellow passengers across the aisle.

Toward the end of the journey, however, they appeared to be mutually attracted to one another. Each carefully scrutinized his neighbor for several moments without breaking the long silence. Then one put the query:

"Where you goin'?"

"Bloomingdale," was the laconic reply. "Where you goin'?"

"Bloomingdale."

"What's the matter with you?"

"Religion. What's the matter with you?"

"Rooseveltism."

"Ah, you ain't crazy. You're simply a d——n fool."

NOTES AND QUERIES.

ALBERT.—To repair meerschaum: Make a glue of finely powdered and sifted chalk and white of egg. Put a little of this glue on the parts to be repaired and hold them pressed together for a moment.

T. W. R.—See Prosecuting Attorney (Four Courts) and explain to him the facts in your case. He will, if occasion demands, proceed against the party who has cheated you. Your call on him will cost you nothing.

TYPEWRITING—Public stenographer rates: Specifications, first page, 15 cents; carbon copies, 5 cents each; legal documents, page, 25 cents; sermons, about 20 cents; lectures, $1 an hour for reporting, 20 cents per page for transcribing; depositions, 45 cents, 15 cents for each carbon copy; correcting manuscript, $5 to $500.

NOTICE TO ALL READERS.—We haven't time to give business addresses by MAIL or in this column. Great numbers of requests for such addresses reach us in the mail, and to give them attention would involve a great deal of inquiry and clerical work. Furthermore, it would be manifestly unfair to give one address when there are so many persons or firms in the same business or profession, sometimes occupying a page or more of the City Directory.

READER.—The first railway, which was made by laying wooden rails along the ties, was early in the sixteenth century near Newcastle-on-Tyne. On these rails were laid hardwood strips. In 1735 these strips were replaced by others made of iron. An outer ridge prevented the car from leaving the track. Later it was placed inside. In 1767 cast iron bars, very short, were used for rails. The flange was placed on the wheel. Gradually the rails were lengthened. The cars on this road were drawn by horses.

L. M. T.—Clipping eyebrows is said to cause heavier growth. Occasional applications of a lotion made by dissolving 10 grains of sulphate of quinine in two ounces of cologne will stimulate. This ointment may cause a new growth: Red vaseline, 1 ounce; tincture cantharides, 1 ounce; Jamaica rum, 1 ounce; oil rosemary, 5 drops. Mix thoroughly; apply twice daily with eyebrow brush. The simplest eyebrow stain is made by mixing burnt cork with cold cream. This is best done by charring the cork over gas or a candle and rubbing it into a small portion of cream placed in a saucer.

RENO.—Dower and curtesy were abolished in Oklahoma. If decedent leave a surviving husband or wife, and only one child, or the lawful issue of one child, the property passes in equal shares to the surviving husband or wife and child, or issue of such child. If decedent leave a surviving husband or wife and more than one child living, or one child living and the lawful issue of one or more deceased children, one-third goes to the surviving husband or wife, the remainder in equal shares to his children and to the lawful issue of any deceased child. If decedent leave no issue estate goes in equal shares to surviving husband or wife and to decedent's father.

OCTOBER.—We do not think God made a mistake in gravitation. If He were to change this law we might be distributed through space, and presently die of starvation or from some other cause incident to the change. Some one writes: Radium particles dashing off into space in all directions seem to bid defiance to gravitation. So far as the evidence goes, there seems no reason to doubt that particles are flying out from a radium atom really move in right lines, and that such of them as are directed away from the earth will pass on in due course beyond the very bounds of our universe. If such is the case these particles are all for practical purposes bidding defiance to the law of gravitation. And if it be true that all substances are radioactive, then, to the extent of their radioactivity, all substances obey a law of dissipation of matter which is even more profound than the law of gravitation.

CONSTANT.—A plentiful use of cold cream, the kind that feeds the skin, and massage are the best cure for wrinkles. Each wrinkle has its own peculiar motion, up from the chin, to cure the sagging around the mouth, gently down on the forehead for the horizontal wrinkles, across for the vertical wrinkles, a rotary motion for the crow's feet, etc. The motions are all circular, up, and out—never down. The best massage is after the Swedish system. It should not be too vigorous, and, with a fine skin, very gentle. When the face is to be massaged, it is first washed with warm water, and then anointed very thickly with cold cream. After the massage hot applications may be made as described above. Then the face should be thoroughly washed with soap and hot water, and rinsed, and finally cold applications made to close the pores and stimulate a healthy circulation. If the face feels stiff a little cream is rubbed in. Adhesive plasters are also used to iron out wrinkles. They come properly shaped for every kind of wrinkle. The skin should be stretched smooth under them, and a soothing lotion should be applied in the morning.

E. N.—The potato is of the nightshade family, which includes tobacco, belladonna, tomato, eggplant and pepper. It is a native of the elevated regions of the tropics of Peru, Chile and Mexico. It is believed to have been carried to Spain from Peru early in the sixteenth century, and introduced into Virginia from Florida by the Spanish explorers. It appears to have been brought to Ireland from Virginia by Sir Francis Hawkins in 1565, and to England by Sir Francis Drake in 1585, though the credit is usually assigned to Sir Walter Raleigh, who brought them to the attention of Queen Elizabeth in 1586, and first introduced their culture in Ireland upon his estate near Cork. It is still found in several varieties in Peru, Chile and Island of Chiloe, and the wild plant bears a close resemblance to the cultivated. Apart from the abnormal development of the tuber and the very much reduced production of seed, it is believed there has been no changes in the potato plant since its cultivation became general. The common potato was described in 1597 by Gerhard in his "Herball," and in the following century was cultivated on a small scale in the Netherlands, Burgundy and Italy, and on account of its abundant yield was recommended by the Royal Society of London in 1663 for introduction into Ireland as a protection against famines, but it was not until the middle of the eighteenth century that it acquired any real importance on the continent of Europe, and not until the end of the century did it become important as a field crop in Germany and France, which are today two of the greatest potato producing countries in the world. The potato is not mentioned in "The Complete Gardener," a work published in 1719, and as late as 1771 only two varieties, a white and a red, are mentioned in the most important English work on gardening, and they were considered only fit for a food for swine and cattle.

NEWS OF THE WORLD CABLED TO THE POST-DISPATCH

CUPID SMASHES FAMED COTERIE OF GIRL CHUMS

First He Hit Princess Margaret of Connaught, Then Muriel White, Next Nellie Post and Last of All Claire Frewen.

THREE OF THE QUARTET HAILED FROM AMERICA

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Claire Frewen's wedding marked the total elimination from the state of single blessedness of a world-famous quartet of close feminine friends. One was a British princess, the other three were charming New York girls.

For years Margaret of Connaught, a niece of King Edward; Muriel White, daughter of Henry White, a noted American diplomat; Nellie Post, granddaughter of Gen. Wadsworth, and Claire Frewen, grandaughter of Leonard Jerome, were almost inseparable companions.

The Princess was the first to marry. Five years ago she became the bride of Prince Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden, who is now Crown Prince, and some day she will be Queen. She has two sons and one daughter, the girl having been born last March.

Next to disappear from the maiden coterie was Muriel White, who on April 29, 1909, wedded in Berlin Count Hermann Scherr-Thoss of Prussian Silesia. A daughter was born to the Countess on the 4th of last April.

Then Nellie Post, daughter of Lady Barrymore by a former marriage, was led to the altar in St. George's Church in London on the 22d of June of this year by Montague Eliot, groom-in-waiting to the King.

Finally, on Oct. 15, Miss Claire Consuelo Frewen and Mr. Wilfrid Sheridan of London became husband and wife in St. Margaret's, Westminster. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Brinsley Sheridan of Frampton Court, Dorchester.

NOTABLES PRESENT AT CEREMONY.

All of these weddings were notable affairs. Among those present when Miss Frewen was married were the Crown Prince and Crown Princess of Sweden, Countess Torby and Countess Zia Torby, Prime Minister Asquith, Mr. and Mrs. Morton Frewen and Lieut. Oswald Frewen, Mr. and Mrs. A. Brinsley Sheridan, Col. Frewen and Col. and Mrs. Stephen Frewen, Mr. and Mrs. George Cornwallis West, Col. and Mrs. Leslie, Col. and Mrs. Hall-Walker, Sir E. and Lady Strachey, Mr. and Mrs. Winston Churchill, Mr. John and Lady Gwendoline Churchill, Lady Harcourt, Col. and Mrs. St. John Mildmay, Lady Naylor-Leyland, Sir Edward Naylor-Leyland, Admiral Lord Charles Beresford and Lady Charles Beresford, Rear-Admiral Sir George Warrender and Miss Warrender, the Countess of Essex, Lady Desborough, Sir Charles and Lady Rivers-Wilson, the Earl of Warwick, Lord and Lady Brassey, Mr. F. E. Smith, Sir Frank Swettenham, Lady Poltimore, Viscountess Cranley, the Marshioness of Dufferin and Ava, Rear-Admiral Sturdee and Capt. Mark Kerr.

There was a reception afterward at Hyde Park House, lent for the occasion by Lady Naylor-Leyland, who before marriage was Jennie Chamberlain of Cleveland, O., famous in English society as "the American beauty."

BRIDE'S BECOMING GOWN.

Miss Frewen was a very beautiful bride in her clinging gown of soft ivory-white satin, the front very elaborately embroidered in silver. Her veil was arranged in a most becoming fashion on the head and fastened with a triple band of pearls, which met on either side of the forehead in large diamond and pearl medallions. Instead of the conventional bouquet of flowers she carried a branch of orange blossoms.

The bridemaids numbered eight in all, six being grown up and two were maidens of 4 and 5. The elder were Miss Ruby, Miss Inagh and Miss Violet Frewen, cousins of the bride; Miss Ghita Stanhope, daughter of the Hon. Henry Stanhope; Miss Stella Campbell, daughter of Mrs. Patrick Campbell, and Miss Beatrice Howarth. The two little girls were Miss Barbara Harcourt, the daughter of the Right Hon. Lewis and Mrs. Harcourt, and Miss Millicent Hope Hawkins, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Hope Hawkins.

Charles I gowns of soft carnation-pink satin were worn by the bridemaids, and those gowns were trimmed with silver lace. Little caps of silver net, outlined with pale pink coral beads, also proved most effective. The six older maids carried branches of palest pink tiger lilies in place of the conventional bouquets.

One little page, the son of Sir Edward and Lady Strachey, attended the bride.

YANKEE GIRL'S CHANCE TO BE QUEEN FADING

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1910, by Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Former Anita Stewart's prospects of some time being Queen of Portugal, which seemed to brighten recently, is fading.

Her husband, the Duke of Viseu, is the eldest son and heir of Duke Miguel of Braganza, the pretender to the Portuguese throne. If his claim were to be acknowledged, the Duchess, of course, would be Crown Princess, and eventually Queen—that is, supposing everything turned out to suit the Braganzas. The Duke of Veseu went to Bavaria after the revolution in Lisbon to attend a family council.

The pretender and his kin found little encouragement. Two unpleasant facts stared them in the face—there was no loud call from Portugal for the pretender, and there was no money to prosecute his claim. It is asserted that even Braganza's "wealthy connections" positively refused to put up cash for an unpromising enterprise. The "wealthy connections" undoubtedly included the possessors of the millions of the late James Henry Smith, the second husband of the Duchess of Viseu's mother.

The Duke of Viseu has returned to London, where the Duchess and her babe, Princess Nada, have been staying at Mrs. J. H. Smith's house on Grosvenor Square.

Viseu's debts have now been nearly all paid off. The determined stand taken by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Smith, against the usurer's demands brought nearly all his creditors to terms, and negotiations are still proceeding in the remaining cases. Mrs. Smith is frequently automobiling in the park with her granddaughter, a very pretty infant, with remarkable coloring, large gray-blue eyes and golden brown hair.

WINS AUSTRIAN BEAUTY PRIZE.

VIENNA, Nov. 5.—Miss Mela Rybica, sailing from the Tyrol, was pronounced the handsomest gentlewoman in the Austrian empire at the national beauty competition, at which she won first prize. The contest was restricted to women of title and the wives and daughters of military and professional men. Actresses and professional beauties were rigorously excluded.

CZAR HAVING THE TIME OF HIS LIFE

DARMSTADT, Germany, Nov. 5.—Czar Nicholas has been in Darmstadt more than a month and shows no inclination to depart. Indeed, he is having "the time of his life," and the invalid Czarina could not be happier than she is in her native town, though she is keeping in the background.

But the Czar occupies the same box each night in the opera house and joins heartily in the handclapping. He has shown a decided liking for "Tales of Hoffmann" and the "Rheingold," consequently these are on the bill rather too frequently to please local playgoers.

There is a cinematograph show in town, and in honor of the august guest a film was shown depicting the Czar on his one and only sojourn in a stately procession across the Palace de la Concord. After the film had been encored from the imperial box, His Majesty was heard to suggest that he would like to see the result of it being shown backward. For his edification this was done, with grotesque effect, of course, but the Czar was mightily amused at the feat of the soldiery and imperial carriages backing out of sight.

By day the Czar saunters through town and makes purchases. Generally he finds time for an hour's play with his five children in the palace precincts. The afternoon, wet or fine, is invariably devoted to a long walk in the suburbs—often he goes 10 miles and sometimes more. On these excursions he is accompanied by two members of his household, who, it is noticed, comport themselves as his friends and equals; Nicholas has even done away with the practice of the sovereign walking a pace or two ahead of his companions. Like King Alfonso, he is never without a cigarette.

DAUGHTER OF FIELD IS HONORED BY KITCHENER

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Field Marshal Lord Kitchener dined on Thursday with Admiral and Mrs. David Beatty at their town residence, Hanner Lodge, Regent's Park. Kitchener detests being lionized and is more difficult to secure for a guest than any other prominent man in England. The Marshal not only is a friend of the Admiral, but his greatest favorite is the Admiral's little son. Kitchener visited the Beattys in Scotland during the season and ever since he has kept up a correspondence with little Master David Beatty. Mrs. Beatty was a daughter of the late Marshall Field of Chicago.

ROLLER SKATING IS THE POPULAR PARIS DIVERSION

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—Roller skating is quite the fad in Paris. The popular home for amusement this winter is the Palais des Sports, a rink so big that the skater will have little difficulty imagining herself out of doors. With the skates have come the skating costumes, which are quite fetching, but of no resemblance to the hobble skirt.

BOY PRINCE HAS A ROYAL TEMPER

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

ROME, Oct. 24.—Miss Cowen, the Englishwoman intrusted with the charge of the children of the King and Queen of Italy, relates the following story of Prince Humbert, the heir to the throne. Though only 6 years old, the future King has much determination and great strength of character, with a strong tendency to overrule all those with whom he comes in contact.

Recently the royal family made an excursion to their beautiful country seat at Castlaporciano, on the borders of the Adriatic.

While playing with his sisters barefooted on the sands, jumping in and out of a boat, Prince Humbert fell and hurt himself somewhat severely. Queen Helena, who had forbidden this particular game, scolded the little Prince for disobedience.

A royal servant arrived with a basket of oranges, which the Queen divided among the other children, giving the Prine's share to the son of one of the royal gamekeepers.

The little Prince snatched the orange from him and threw it into the sea. Queen Helena immediately ordered young Humbert home.

At dinner the Queen related the incident to her husband. The King sent for his son the next morning and gave him the option of going at once in person to beg pardon of the keeper's son or of being deprived of all sweets for a week.

Little Humbert is fond of sweetmeats but determined to sacrifice his cravings to his pride.

That day, however, after his midday meal, he set aside two oranges and, without saying a word to any one, on his return to the seashore in the afternoon sent for the son of the gamekeeper and handed him the fruit, magnanimously begging his pardon for his rude conduct of the day before.

PEERS FOND OF ACTRESS WIVES

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Viscount Torrington, who has married Miss Souray, was twentieth British peer to marry an actress since the beginning of the peerage. Eleven of these marriages have taken place within the last 24 years, the remaining nine having covered a period from 1734 to 1847.

The fashion was set in the eighteenth century by the Earl of Peterborough, the Duke of Bolton and the Earl of Derby, who married, respectively, Anastasia Robinson, Lavinia Fenton and Elisabeth Farren.

In more recent times, an impetus was given to such unions by the late Duke of Cambridge's marriage in 1847 to the actress, Louisa Fairbrother.

Then came, in comparatively quick succession, the marriages of Baron Gardner and Julie Fortescue, Marquis of Ailesbury and Dolly Tester, Earl of Clancarty and Belle Bilton, Earl of Orkney and Connie Gilchrist, Baron Haldon and Lavinia Maichle, Marquis of Headfort and Rosie Boote, Earl of Rosslyn and Anne Robinson, Baron de Clifford and Eva Carrington, Baron Ashburton and Frances Donnelly, and Earl Poulett and Sylvia Storey.

Many of these union have been singularly happy.

KING IS WILLING TO ABDICATE IF—

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

VIENNA, Nov. 5.—In an interview in the Neue Freie Presse, King George of Greece says that he will abdicate without a murmur whenever the people of Greece request it, but not upon the request of soldiers and courtiers. He declares that he has made enemies by upholding the Constitution and rights of the people. Persons who would like to see the Constitution suppressed, he asserts, have been trying to turn the people against him.

"I have been at work here for 47 years," says the King. "I have done my duty from the beginning. I found an impoverished country and have done all I could to enrich it. I know that the working people all over the country, outside of Athens, love me. In a trip through the country recently I saw that the people love me. I think they understand what I have done for them. If I could harrangue the masses of Athens from my balcony I know that they, too, would come to love me. But I believe a King ought to be silent. Other kings and rulers talk much, but I do not like to do that. I work and wait. If the people tell me they do not want me I shall leave the country, but the people, not soldiers and courtiers, must do that."

MOTOR HORNS SOUNDING DOOM OF FOX CHASE

Increasing Popularity of English Winter Sport, Resulting From Modern Ease of Travel, and Other Changes, Threatens End

SMALL FARMS INJURED BY RECKLESS RIDERS

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Fox-hunting, long the national winter sport of the countryside, is more popular now than ever before, but it is facing probable extinction for the very reason that it has become so popular. Increasing ease of travel by train and motor, has resulted in larger numbers of hunters and more damage to farmers' fields, with at the same time, diminishing returns to the farmers for the necessities of the hunters. These and other conditions are bringing about a sentiment against the sport which will eventually extinguish it except in some few remote localities where the conditions are unusually favorable.

It used to be that the follower of hounds had to ride horseback to the meet and ride home again after the meet and only the energetic went in for the sport. Now all that the hunter has to do is to notice where a meet is to take place, as indicated by the advertisements in the newspapers, send on his horse or horses, and then go down himself by train or motor.

In the past when those joining in the hunt were all friends and neighbors, landowners and farmers did not mind a little damage being done to their fields. Now that the old 'squires and landowners are becoming more impoverished and their estates are falling into the hands of moneybred in the towns, and the hunters are strangers, the condition is different.

CAUSES LOSS TO FARMER.

The farmers are becoming restive. The townsman knows little about country life, and so, out of sheer ignarance, he does considerable damage. He knows nothing about the etiquette of hunting. He leaves gates open, he damages hedges, he rides over cultivated ground when it is really unnecessary, and he overrides hounds. More than that, he stables his horse in town, feeds them on foreign corn, and spends hardly a penny in the country. Much of the damage is paid for, but the balance is generally against the farmer, and he does not see why he should throw open his land to strangers who show little or no appreciation of his good sportsmanship.

Motorists are spoiling the sport by following the hunt, with the result that the foxes are headed again and again, and promising runs are brought to an untimely end.

The growth of small holdings is detrimental. The land is so closely cultivated that a large field of hunters, galloping across it, will ruin the work of months in a few minutes.

Poultry farming is being more largely followed than ever before, and the small poultry farmer has no scruples about killing foxes. Seldom being a hunting man himself he sees no reason why he should spare the foxes that menace his fowls merely to give pleasure to others.

ROYAL CHRISTMAS CARDS SHOW HISTORIC SCENES

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1910, by Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

LONDON, Nov. 5.—King George's Christmas card is to be very different from the cards his father, King Edward, was accustomed to devise, which represented Christmas jollity or religious subjects. King George has ordered a card representing Henry the VIII visiting Cardinal Wolsey at Hampton Court. The King recently visited Hampton Court, which gave him the idea.

Queen Mary's card represents Prince Charles taking leave of Flora McDonald on his escape from Scotland. Queen Alexandra's represents the landing of King Canute.

The firm which produces these cards is preparing a card for Emperor William, representing Charles II embarking from Holland aboard the Royal Charles on his restoration. The Germanophobes here discern in these a deliberate intimation of the Emperor's expression that history will repeat itself, and that he, having gained possession of Holland, will embark there to take over possession of the English throne—to which he considers himself entitled as the eldest son of Queen Victoria's eldest child.

The Queen of Spain's card represents the marriage of Edward I to Eleanor of Carlisle.

The Queen of Italy's represents the Madonna and Child.

BERLIN FEARS IT HAS LOST DESTINN TO US

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—Fashionable Berlin turned out in force to bid farewell to Emmy Destinn on Monday at her last concert before going to New York. At its close the stage was a mass of flowers from innumerable admirers. The newspapers urge her to hurry back, and one adds:

"Not only do these Americans steal our best voices, but they inspire our singers with a love for 'the almighty dollar.'"

This is an intimation that Germany may not have enough to tempt Destinn to return home.

AMERICAN'S DAUGHTERS SOCIAL LEADERS ABROAD

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Mrs. W. Bourke Cochran of New York and her beautiful sister, Miss Marjorie Ide, daughters of Gen. Henry Ide, American minister to Spain, when in London recently posed for their photographs in a Mayfair studio. Last winter Miss Ide was the chatelaine of the legation in Madrid.

When Gen. Ide was Governor-General of the Phillippines his two daughters presided socially over the old palace at Manila. Miss Marjorie, who has figured as one of the most accomplished women in Washington society, is a linguist of unusual ability.

Gen. Ide will soon leave for his Spanish post and will be followed by Miss Marjorie later in the fall.

COLISEUM GRAND OPERA SEASON NOW ASSURED OF BRILLIANT SUCCESS

Official Announcement of Opera Repertoire and Casts Indicates Most Memorable Engagement in St. Louis' Musical History—Interesting Happenings in Drama.

By RIPLEY D. SAUNDERS.

ELSEWHERE in today's Sunday Post-Dispatch will be found the St. Louis Grand Opera Committee's announcement of the repertoire and casts to be presented during the Coliseum opera season opening Monday evening, Jan. 2.

Most heartily do I congratulate the gentlemen of this committee on the splendid assurance of success for the approaching engagement contained in the details of their announcement to the opera-loving public. The result of the "post-card referendum" which they inaugurated to learn the opera choice of that public is all that could be desired. The great singers named in the several casts insure a most brilliant presentation of each of the four operas selected. Of these four operas, three—"Salome," "The Girl of the Golden West" and "The Tales of Hoffmann"—will then be heard in St. Louis for the first time.

"The Girl of the Golden West" still remains to be produced for the first time on any stage. Its premiere production in New York will attain signal distinction as marking the first occasion in all the history of opera that a grand opera by a famous foreign composer was heard in America before having been presented in Europe.

Mary Garden will create the title role in this Puccini work, based on the American drama of the same name—and in this role Mary Garden will be heard in St. Louis within but a few days of the role's creation by her in New York. The American production of "The Girl of the Golden West" will be the one overwhelming topic of musical interest throughout the civilized world. In its name-part Miss Garden is expected to score the most memorable triumph of her entire career.

As Salome, in the Richard Strauss opera of this name, Miss Garden comes almost direct from her brilliant Paris success in this same role. Shudderingly realistic in its portrayal, the Salome of Mary Garden's singing and acting is universally conceded to be one of the greatest dramatic and lyric achievements in all modern music-drama.

The master artists to be heard in the other works of the St. Louis repertoire, as also those associated with Miss Garden in the two operas just named, are of similar distinction. The musical direction of the entire engagement has been assigned to Cleofonte Campanini, one of the world's greatest conductors of grand opera. The people of St. Louis and of the vast territory of which St. Louis is the metropolis, may well rejoice at the prospect of musical delight now submitted for their contemplation. I beg to call their attention to the full details of the Coliseum opera season, which will be found on another page of this paper.

BY all odds the biggest event of the past week in the American theatrical world was the arrival in New York of Sarah Bernhardt, glowing with eager ardor for the opening of her farewell tour of the United States and so vital with relish of life as to be a delight for the thoughtful soul's contemplation.

"If I am what I am," said Mme. Bernhardt to one who commented, marveling, upon her youthful enthusiasm, "it is because of hard work and the kindness of the good God." Admirable utterance of a great truth! Hard work, beloved of the worker, and that kindness of the good God which permits the dear task's performance to the fullest of one's bent are assuredly the conquering factors in mortality's race against time. Avaunt, then of the ordinarily relentless scythe and hour-glass! The benign influences invoked by this epochal woman certainly seem to have turned from her the edge of the one and arrested, for her, the sandflow of the other!

In witness whereof, Mme. Bernhardt will be in St. Louis some time this winter, a self-proclaimed living proof of the virtue of hard work and the kindness of the good God.

Most important of the play premieres in New York this past week was that of Charles Klein's "The Gamblers," a stage pillorying of Wall street and modern get-rich-quick methods in stock speculation.

Fatherly and filial love appear prominently in this play's story. The younger Emerson, made a full business partner of his father, takes a short cut to fortune and lays himself liable to criminal prosecution by the Federal authorities. The elder Emerson, yearning over his errant Absalom, shoulders the responsibility for the son's crooked work and strives to sacrifice himself for his boy's sake. But the Federal prosecuting attorney is the enemy and rival in love of the younger Emerson, the full truth is brought out under his self-interested investigation, the play rises to a compelling moment of dramatic intensity, all the trickiness of Wall street is ruthlessly exposed, and the ultimate lesson taught is one of grim warning against speculative trifling with the law of the land.

RUSSIAN DANCERS WHO NOW COME TO ST. LOUIS

ANNA PAVLOWA AND MIKAIL MORDKIN, ODEON

CURTAINS NOW RISE UPON THESE PLAYS IN ST. LOUIS PLAYHOUSES

"The Dollar Princess," which begins a two-weeks' engagement at the Olympic tomorrow evening, comes with the prestige of brilliant Vienna, London and New York triumphs. It is still running in London, it ran all last season at the Knickerbocker Theater, New York City, and its supplementary engagement at the New York Theater in the metropolis terminated only last night. The company now hurries, direct and intact, from New York to St. Louis.

The story of "The Dollar Princess," diverting in its humor, concerns the European adventures of an American millionairess who publicly proclaims that she will marry the man she loves, and no other, but only when she is certain she has tamed him. Her challenge is accepted by a manly suitor who finally, in the most melodious measures heard in a theater for years, sings his way into her affections. The play's three acts show respectively an American millionaire's office, the conservatory in his home, and the Anglo-American Exposition in London, all described as scenic masterpieces. The musical score is rich in languorous waltzes, snappy lyrics and beautiful recitative passages. A brace of resourceful comedians have the amplest opportunities in fun-making.

The capable company, numbering 100, is headed by Donald Brian, the original Prince Danilo in "The Merry Widow," and includes such clever English and American players as F. Pope Stamper, E. J. Connelly, Will West, Albert Hart, Cyril Biddulph, Daisy Le Hay, Carrol McComas, Hilda Vining and Zena Curson. The costumes are announced as exceptionally lovely.

Dustin Farnum in "Cameo Kirby," a new comedy by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, comes to the Garrick for the week opening tonight.

The play's scenes are laid in New Orleans and on a nearby plantation in 1822, and its young title-role hero is a type of the old-time gentleman-gambler on the Mississippi River steamers of those picturesque days. Mr. Farnum is said to be at his best in this part, portraying with fine affectiveness the wayward member of an aristocratic Southern family who is ultimately brought under the good influence of a charming Southern girl, through love for whom he is redeemed.

"Cameo Kirby" has scored pleasing New York and Chicago triumphs and comes to St. Louis from a successful Southern tour.

"The Girl in the Taxi," announced as a bright, tuneful and clean farce-comedy, is this week's Century offering, beginning with tonight's performance.

The action of the play tells the amusing experiences of a wealthy New Yorker who is fond of giving elaborate suppers to chorus girls, and of his young nephew and a son, the latter in love with the title-role heroine. It reaches its climax in an unexpected encounter of all the principals in a famous New York cafe and much of its piquant dramatic interest arises from the son's appropriation of a beautiful loving cup presented to the father, with which he hastens to a pawnshop. A capable presentation is promised.

There will be a special performance Tuesday afternoon, in addition to the regular Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

"The Midnight Sons" begins its second and last week at the Sam S. Shubert with today's extra matinee, put on because of the heavy demand for seats during the first week's playing.

This is a massive scenic production, presented by a company in which more than 250 persons are employed. There is much bright entertainment and many catchy songs, and the original cast, headed by George Monroe, is seen.

The chorus numbers over 125 members and is beautifully costumed.

"The Newlyweds and Their Baby," the vastly entertaining musical comedy based on George McManus' famous cartoons in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and the New York World, returns to the American this week, opening with today's matinee.

Master James E. Rosen, a Lilliputian comedian, plays little Napoleon Newlywed and Major Knott Much. Countess Olga von Hatzfeldt is Mrs. Newlywed, Leo Hayes is the fondly doting Mr. Newlywed, and others in the company are Maste Lee, May Emory, George P. Murphy, Milton Dawson, J. N. Dyer and a beauty chorus of more than fifty members.

W. S. Hart and a company of 30, in "The Holdup," a thrilling and realistic episode of the Southwest, now in its second successful year in London, will head the Princess bill this week. Other features are Dave Lewis of "Royal Chef" fame, and Al Fields, in a side-splitting comedy; Clarice Vance, the beautiful singer of Southern melodies; Steve Bartelle, concertina performer; Johnson Clarke, in a comedy sketch entitled "The Yokel;" the Reid Sisters, singers and dancers; Mason and Bart, in a clever sketch, and Jessie Broughton, a noted English contralto.

For the week of Nov. 14 Manager Fishell of the Princess announces the engagement of Consul, the famous monkey, in the greatest trained-animal act on the stage.

La Pia, the "Enchantress," direct from the Palace Theater, London, will be the Columbia's topline star this week, appearing in beautiful dances emphasized by scenic settings of exceptional picturesqueness. Other features are Gus Edwards' "School Boys and Girls," a romping riot of fun, featuring Lillian Gonne, a former St. Louis girl; "The Visitor," the intensely dramatic playlet written by Oliver White, a St. Louis playwright, and presented by his brother, Porter J. White, and a capable company; Melville and Higgins, in "Just a Little Fun;" O'Brien Havel and Bessie Kyle, in "The Office Boy and the Typewriter;" Ed Fennel and Lena Tyson, in "The Soph and the Freshy;" Harold Forbes and Carrie Bowman, in a musical sketch entitled "A Boy and a Girl;" Ben Byer and Brother, "The Cycling Messengers," and the kinodrome.

"Three Weeks," a dramatized version of Elinor Glyn's novel of the same name, returns to the Imperial for the week opening with today's matinee. The presenting company will be headed by Miss Jeanne Towles. A big scenic production is announced.

Next, "Happy Hooligan."

"The Clansman," a dramatization of Thomas Dixon Jr.'s novel of Kuklux days in the South, will be presented at Havlin's this week, beginning this afternoon, for the first time by a stock company or at popular prices. Frank T. Charlton will play the leading role of Ben Cameron, Jessaline Rogers that of Elsie Stonesman, and others of the company are effectively placed. The play will be presented by an augmented cast, a negro quartet, many supernumeraries, horses, etc., and Manager Wallace has provided an impressive scenic equipment. He also announced the engagement of Miss Flora Dorsit, to take the place of Hazel Sherwood, beginning with "The Bootblack," next week.

The Burton Holmes travelogue season will close with "Two Ways Around the World," to be presented at the Odeon next Thursday afternoon at 4 and evening at 8:15, illustrated by strikingly beautiful colored views and motion pictures. Mr. Holmes takes his fellow-travelers on a double circumnavigation of the globe, once by the northern route, via the trans-Siberian Railway, St. Petersburg, Moscow, Norway, Sweden, on to Paris, and so homeward, and the other via Japan, China, Java, Ceylon, India, Sues and the Mediterranean. The subjects and pictures also include such American scenic beauties as the Yellowstone Park, the Grand Canyon of Arizona, the Yosemite and other wonders.

Mr. Holmes will return to repeat his Passion Play travelogue at the Odeon on Wednesday evening, Nov. 16, at 8:15 o'clock.

The Passing Parade, headed by Sam Sidman, the highest salaried comedian in burlesque, begins a week's engagement at the Standard with today's matinee. The entertainment includes a two-act musical show, a clever vaudeville bill, and, as a special feature, "The Guerillo Grab," depicting Paris and New York slum life.

"The Runaway Girls" come to the Gayety for the week opening this afternoon. The opening offering is entitled "The Aviators." This will be followed by a big vaudeville olio, and, as an extra feature, "The Underworld," presented by Reid, Wakefield and company, exactly reproducing life in a Chinese opium den, and said to be one of the most realistic acts in burlesque.

PAVLOWA COMES WITH MORDKIN NOW TO ODEON

Supported by Russian Imperial Ballet, They Appear Monday Night.

BEAUTIFUL PROGRAM

Mordkin's "The Legend of Azyiade" Among Its Picturesque Features.

Mlle. Anna Pavlowa and M. Mikail Mordkin, the two world-famous Russians, now conceded to be the most perfect living exponents of the great art of poetic dancing, will appear at the Odeon tomorrow evening, supported by the Russian Imperial Ballet, in a program of the utmost beauty.

Pavlowa is described as an exquisite type of grace and loveliness, and Mordkin is universally hailed as a seeming incarnation of a young Greek god, so classic are his features and so flawless the masculine lines of his figure. Already of the highest renown in every European capital, they came to the Metropolitan Opera House for the first time last season and carried New York by storm. During their present tour of other large American cities they have drawn crowded houses at every performance.

The program to be presented tomorrow evening is as follows:

FOR THE BUST

A new method of home treatment for the development of the bust, originated by a famous physician who used it with great success in a large practice, can now be obtained in this city.

Sorose is for only one thing, to increase the bust, and it does not affect other parts of the body. It is so uniformly successful that the local agents, Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., are instructed to sell it under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it is not successful.

There is no massaging, no steaming, no rubber appliances, nothing but a scientific treatment that stimulates the natural growth of the bosom and gives an increase of from three to six inches in a few weeks. A three weeks' treatment costs only $1.00 at Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., or sent by mail postpaid by the Embre Toilet Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

STARS OF THREE PLAYS OPENING THIS WEEK AT ST. LOUIS PLAYHOUSES

Ellen Terry Comes to Talk of Shakspeare's Heroines

Ellen Terry, the famous English actress, last seen in St. Louis at the Olympic three seasons ago in a memorable repertoire of great plays, will come to the Odeon on Wednesday evening, Nov. 23, presenting her illustrative discourse on Shakspeare's "Heroines Triumphant," with which she has already delighted the play-loving public of Eastern cities.

During the course of this novel entertainment Miss Terry will portray, in costume, several of the most important roles in which she won her high station as one of the foremost actresses on the English-speaking stage. Her discourse in itself is rich in the charm inseparable from such an intelligently appreciative student's consideration of Shakspeare's great women, and reveals Miss Terry's culture and artistic insight at their best.

The approaching event will mark Miss Terry's only St. Louis appearance this season. She comes under the auspices of the executive council of Neighborhood House.

Precisely as it succeeded "The Midnight Sons" at the Herald Square Theater in New York City last winter "The Jolly Bachelors," the second of Lew Fields' big spectacles, comes to the Sam S. Shubert for a two weeks' engagement, opening next Sunday night, the farewell performance of "The Midnight Sons" being given on the preceding evening. Stella Mayhew, most jovial of comediennes, heads its cast, which also includes that fragile English beauty, Lucy Weston; Al Leach, Billie Taylor, Harold Crane, Nat Fields, Roy Atwell, Norman Tharp, Florence Topham and Maud Gray.

Rose Stahl in "The Chorus Lady" will be the Century's offering next week, beginning Sunday evening. The Fatricia O'Brien of Miss Stahl's creation has few equals in modern comedy and bids fair to become a classic figure on the American stage. Despite the fact that this James Forbes play has been running three seasons, so few changes have been made in its cast that its star is still supported by what is virtually the original company.

Henry E. Dixey, last seen in St. Louis in the title role of "Mary Jane's Pa," comes to the Garrick for the week opening next Sunday evening in "The Naked Truth," a three-act farce in which Charles Hawtrey has scored a great London success and which is said to give Mr. Dixey his best opportunity. The play's comedy concerns the predicament in which Bernard Darrell, played by Mr. Dixey, finds himself, under the mag spell of a peculiar ring which compels him to tell the truth at all times. This obligation of the ring's magic nearly costs its wearer the hand of his fiancee and the loss of all his friends, giving rise to many amusing situations.

Coming to the Olympic—Nov. 14, "The Dollar Princess;" Nov. 21, Maude Adams in "What Every Woman Knows;" Nov. 27, Richard Carle in "Jumping Jupiter;" Dec. 4, J. E. Dodson in "The House Next Door."

Coming to the Century—Nov. 13, Rose Stahl in "The Chorus Lady;" Nov. 20 "The Third Degree;" Nov. 27, Robert Edeson in "Where the Trail Divides;" Dec. 4, Robert Hilliard in "A Fool There Was."

Five successive Monday evenings at the Odeon, beginning Nov. 21, will be given over to a series of illustrated travel talks by E. M. Newman, who has attained an enviable reputation in the larger American cities. His subjects will be "The Austrian Tyrol," "The Balkans," "Turkey," "Denmark" and "India." They will be illustrated with beautiful colored views and motion pictures.

Freckles

Can Be Easily Removed—Almost in One Night—Like Magic.

Miss E. M. Berger, of Beloit, Wis., writes so interesting and convincing a letter about how she got rid of her freckles that we gladly quote a part of it: "I have used one jar of Kintho and am simply delighted with the results. I was always of the opinion that freckles could NOT be removed, but thought I would give Kintho a trial, and it has truly convinced me that freckles CAN be removed. It has proved all you claim for it." If your case is like Miss Berger's get a two ounce package of Kintho (extra strength) at toilet goods counter of Grand-Leader and see if it won't do the same for you. Money back if it fails. Meyer Bros. Drug Co., Distributers.

Corset Bulletin

MADE IN NEW YORK Nemo CORSETS HEADQUARTERS

BRANCH NEMO FACTORY STUTTGART, GERMANY FOR THE EUROPEAN CONTINENT

BRANCH NEMO FACTORY BRISTOL, ENGLAND FOR THE BRITISH EMPIRE

Vol. 1 NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 6, 1910 No. 12

DEAR MADAM:

It is worth your while to learn all about "Lastikops Webbing," our new fabric that DOESN'T WEAR OUT.

This fabric is already doing wonders in producing corset-comfort with perfect style; but that's only one of its uses—it can do lots of other good things for you, as we'll show you later on.

Just REMEMBER, please, that Lastikops Webbing is a NEW KIND OF A FABRIC; our own patented invention, used ONLY in Nemo products.

Keep this in mind—then you won't be fooled by imitations that you'll find are nothing but the same old UNRELIABLE elastics.

Lastikops Hose Supporters

Every Nemo Corset (except the few $2.00 models) is finished with Lastikops Hose Supporters, guaranteed to outwear any corset.

Health and Slender Grace

The fame of Lastikops Corset No. 330 has already spread from ocean to ocean. Who said that slender women don't need a supporting corset? One that does support? It is evident that slender women THINK THEY DO, for re-orders for No. 330 are pouring in like a flood.

$3.00 Nemo No 330 LASTIKOPS

Those two broad bands of Lastikops Webbing (see cut) stop all dangers of tight lacing. You can pull in the long skirt as hard as you like—it won't harm you in the least.

This is an entirely NEW EFFECT—can't be done with any other elastic.

No. 330, for slender figures; fine white coutil, sizes 18 to 24—$3.00.

No Substitute for Nemos

Nemo Corsets are sold everywhere at fixed and fair retail prices.

If any dealer tries to sell you another make when you ask for a Nemo, it is probably because that other make gives him more profit—and you less value.

The "Shapeless Stout Woman" Has Vanished

Only a few years ago, stout women of the "meal-bag" type could be seen everywhere. Now they are extinct—like the dodo. Or, to be more exact, there are as many stout women as ever, but they are now stately and graceful—yes, and COMFORTABLE. Flesh no longer means a shapeless mass; and, for this happy change, millions of women, in every civilized country, give full and due credit to the Nemo Self-Reducing Corset.

No fleshy woman need now look "fat," nor pay a big price for a made-to-order corset. There's a Self-Reducing model for every kind of stout figure, each an extra value simply as a corset, saying nothing of its invaluable and EXCLUSIVE Nemo features. Your dealer will show you.

HOW TO SELECT YOUR Self-Reducing Corsets

If you are tall and stout, ask for No. 320, at $3.00; No. 406, at $4.00; No. 522 or 525, at $5.00; or, if you are medium stout, and want a genuine corset de luxe, ask for No. 990, at $10.00.

If you are short-waisted and stout, ask for No. 818, at $3.00; No. 408, at $4.00; No. 523, at $5.00; or No. 801, at $8.00.

And please remember that the wonderful style and health features peculiar to Nemo Corsets are entirely due to our original patented inventions, which, of course, cannot be used in any other corsets.

The Failure of Imitation

No imitation is ever as good as the original. Imitators cannot lead—they have to follow.

All imitations of Nemo Self-Reducing Corsets have been fiat failures.

The present imitations of Lastikops Webbing are equally worthless.

Look for the word "Nemo," and accept no substitute—then you'll get satisfaction and your money's worth.

Nemo Lastikops Bandlet

The illustration shows the construction of this invaluable device, and its position in the corset; also, that comfortable supporting curve

which insures complete ease with extreme reduction.

Used only in Nemo Self-Reducing Corsets Nos. 823 and 523, the most wonderful figure-reducing corsets ever made. Thousands of physicians are "prescribing" these corsets in place of abdominal bands—$5.00.

HOW FRENCH WOMEN DEVELOP THE BUST

Mme. Dorothy De La Revere, French Expert On Feminine Beauty, Tells American Women How to Perfectly Develop the Bust.

"The number of undeveloped women in America is astonishing," says Mme. Dorothy De La Revere.

"I am here in America to teach your beautiful faced women that the face does not attract so much as the form, and I am ready to tell any woman who will write me how the French Society women and leading actresses develop their breasts and fill out the hollows of the neck by what is admitted by authorities to be the only scientific, certain method known.

"I am willing to tell free of any charge whatever. You will be surprised how simply it may be done, regardless of the cause of the lack of development.

"I know scores of women who after following my suggestions, have enjoyed what they never before believed possible, a bust development of 4 to 7 inches inside of four to six weeks.

"Whether you have never had development, or the development you once had is lost from any cause, or the bust lacks firmness and proper beauty, you may in a few weeks' time be completely transformed, and be a surprise even to yourself—much more so to your friends.

"If you will send just 4 cents to pay postage I will at once send you full illustrated information complete, telling how to go about it."

This is a rare opportunity for many of our lady readers. Address your inquiry, enclosing 4 cents postage, to Madame Dorothy De La Revere, Suite 1734, 1024 Tyron St., Chicago, Ill.

"DON CARLOS" BY GERMAN PLAYERS AT ODEON TONIGHT

Schiller's Great Historic Drama Given to Celebrate Birth Anniversary.

DISTINGUISHED CAST

Production to Be Made as Planned by Late Director Ferdinand Welb.

An impressive production of Schiller's powerful historic drama, "Don Carlos," will be made by the German Stock Company at the Odeon this evening.

The presentation of this splendid play will be in celebration of Schiller's birthday anniversary, which is commemorated in all countries where German is spoken.

The late Ferdinand Welb, for many years and until his recent death director of the German Stock Company in St. Louis, decided upon "Don Carlos" for this annual event, and tonight's performance will be given precisely as he planned it.

The company is in admirable shape to achieve a distinctly worthy presentation of this imposing drama. The principal roles have been assigned to players well qualified for their best portrayal. Karl Birkholtz will be seen in the title part. Jose Danner has been cast as the King. Fritz Goebel has the role of the Marquis Posa. Louis Pellman will impersonate the Queen, and to Bertha Walden has been given the strong role of the Princess Eboli. Others of the company are placed with similar effectiveness.

The production promises to be the most brilliant in all the long history of the German Stock Company in St. Louis.

The Four Dancing Belles, in their dances entitled, "The Dance of the Winds," "Laughter" and "Comedy," will head the Colonial's bill this week. Other features are Evans Lloyd and Gracelyn Whitehouse, in a grand opera sketch; Bessie Andrea, singing and dancing comedienne; Carroll and Brevoort, in a comedy sketch; the Musical Lowe, and Charles Hitchcock, monologist.

The Plaza will present entertaining vaudeville and motion pictures this week.

Katie O'Brien, who will play the role of Flora, sister of Ben Cameron, in "The Clansman" at Havlin's this week, is a St. Louis girl. Her first stage appearance was made seven years ago, at the age of 11, in a St. Louis stock company, of which Jessaline Rodgers, now leading woman at Havlin's, was the star.

At the recent special performance of "Pelleas and Melisande" in the grounds of the ancient French Convent of St. Mandville, which is now Maeterlinck's home, as much as $40 was paid for one seat to witness the play. The scenes were laid in the various parts of the convent and many Parisian celebrities were present.

A bitter quarrel is on between Jules Claretie, administrative manager of the Comedie Francaise in Paris, and M. Le Bargy, a director and also one of that company's famous actors. Le Bargy has resigned, accusing Claretie of incompetent management, the latter retorting that Le Bargy has always been a traitor to the house's best interests.

A drama by Rajah Rham Singh, an East Indian playwright, is soon to be produced in London. It deals with the subject of the Indian mutiny of 1857, and discusses caste, religion and Indian customs from the viewpoint of a native friendly to the British influence.

Paul Armstrong, whose latest play, "Alias Jimmy Valentine," now a New York and London hit, was written in five days, recently joined a group of friends as they were discussing the wonderful productiveness of Carlo Goldoni, an old Italian playwright, who wrote over 120 plays during his lifetime. "That's nothing," commented Armstrong. "I could do that in a year."

From London comes the announcement that Mrs. Langtry has been chosen for the leading feminine role in Cecil Raleigh's new play, to be produced later this season, in which the English navy and coast defense figure as dramatic factors, with the construction of a "Dreadnought" battleship an incidental feature. The play is as yet unnamed.

The part for which Mrs. Langtry, now Lady de Bathe, has been cast is that of a beautiful society woman of quality placed in an environment where foreign spies are using every means to learn Great Britain's naval secrets. This woman is in a position to know many things which the spies wish to learn. She is a brainless, frivolous creature, much given to babbling and proud of her ability to drop hints as to the nature of the Government secrets in her possession. A certain spy worms from her a valuable "tip" which results in his ultimately obtaining the precise information desired by his country. The foolish English woman is brought face to face with her own folly. There is but one way by which she can prevent the spy from reporting to his Government the full truth of the vital naval secret which she has disclosed. What will she do? Is it to be the honor of England or her own? Will she barter one for the other?

The climacteric situation thus created is said to be tensely dramatic. It is also believed that her role in this new play will give Mrs. Langtry the biggest success of her stage career. London already is deeply interested in the play's approaching production.

Society

THE week just closed was gay, but this week the merry whirl will be on in earnest, for the debutante will come into her own. There will be four or five most attractive weddings, three of them large church affairs with long processions of pretty maids and good-looking ushers.

The Culbertson-Bagnell wedding Wednesday at Holy Communion will be the first. Holy Communion will be crowded with the friends of the fair bride-elect, who since her debut has been one of the most popular girls in the fashionable set.

Miss Niederlander and Merrill Packard Walbridge will be married at eight o'clock on Thursday evening at the Second Presbyterian church. Miss Grace McCulloch and Mr. Powe will be married the same evening at St. Peter's Episcopal church.

Saturday will be the wedding day of Miss Eleanor Aull and Mr. Hall. The latter will be a home wedding, taking place at 8:30 o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Aull, 4480 Westminster place.

The Flower Show will open at the Coliseum Tuesday and the Russian dances, led by Pavlowa, will be the attraction at the Odeon Monday evening.

Mrs. William H. Gregg will give a large reception for her debutante granddaughter, Miss Orian Elizabeth Dyer, on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Albert Price will entertain Wednesday for her daughter, Miss Grace Valle Price, and Mrs. B. B Graham will introduce her daughter, Miss Christine Blair, at a tea to be given at her Lindell boulevard home Nov. 12.

On the same day Mrs. Breckenridge Jones will give her first large entertainment in her Portland place home, for her pretty debutante stepdaughter, Miss Frances Jones.

Mrs. Henry C. Weber will present her young daughter on Nov. 16 at a reception for 300 guests at her Lindell boulevard home.

Mrs. Archer Thatcher will be hostess Nov. 16 at a reception for her daughter, Miss Theodora Thatcher.

Miss Joseph G. Holliday will entertain for her daughter, Miss Ida Holliday, Nov. 17.

Mrs. James F. Frye of Lewis place has sent out cards for Wednesday, Nov. 9. The cards of Mrs. Walter Evans and Mrs. John Nichols are enclosed.

Miss Theo. Conzelman will be guest of honor at a tea to be given Friday, Nov. 18 by her mother, Mrs. Conzelman, at her home, 5260 Washington boulevard.

Davidson's New Shop at 711 Locust street has been pronounced a much-needed want.

The Marshall Darrach recital Saturday morning at the St. Louis Woman's Club surpassed previous years in attendance, brilliancy and interest. The stage setting was pleasing, being the garden scene from the previous evening performance of "Mme. Spencer's House Party," given by the debutantes of last year. Mme. Darrach gave the tragedy of Julius Caesar. A peep at the attendance that filled the ball room proved that black, or a combination of black and white or Oriental embroideries, are away in the lead of fashionable colors this autumn. Some of the attractive toilettes worn Saturday morning were: Mrs. Dan Nugent in black cloth with touches of Persian and gold bands and a velvet hat in Colonial lines with a snowy bird on the back brim. Mrs. Edward Mallinckrodt was in very dark green velvet coat suit, trimmed on skirt and jacket with wide braid. Her hat was of white beaver with seal skin brim and handsewn jewel ornament on the left side.

Mrs. Tom Westmore, a severely tailored blue suit with toreador turban with bright green plumes.

Mrs. Dwight Blossom was in black broadcloth with mushroom hat of black velvet and Persian embroidery.

Miss Clifford wore a becoming gown of dark blue cloth.

Mrs. J. C. Clark Streett wore wisteria cloth and close fitting hat of the same color with big velvet bow at the back.

Mrs. Festus Wade was in black velvet with small velvet hat.

Mrs. W. C. McBride wore black velvet with small hat and ermine and Irish lace stole.

Miss Ellen McBride was in dark blue serge.

Mrs. Lewis M. Rumsey had on wisteria velvet with plumed turban to correspond.

Mrs. George Helmuth was in brown velvet with large hat of gold, sable and white lace.

Mrs. August Frank wore black velvet with large felt hat with wings in gray and white and a big ermine muff and stole.

Mrs. Edward Nugent was in a handsome plaid gown and crimson velvet hat.

Mrs. John B. Kennard was in tailored gown of brown check with deep orchid toned felt hat with plumes.

Mrs. Duncan Meier wore white embroidered broadcloth and black velvet hat.

Mrs. Tom Anderson was in black velvet, with Colonial black velvet hat and white plume.

Mrs. John E. Thomson was in an all-black toilette with small hat with white plume.

Mrs. William C. Morris was in white serge with big black velvet plumed hat.

Mrs. Thomas W. Carter Jr. wore all black broadcloth with black picture hat, and Mrs. Thomas W. Crouch Sr. was in claret velvet coat suit and hat.

Mrs. Alfred Shapleigh wore all black with black beaver bordered with Persian band.

Miss Lucille Cates, one of the ushers, wore pink tucked crepe with chic hat of folded soft felt with cluster of lavender orchids at the left side.

Miss Virginia Zeibig was in lavender messaline with brown marabout bands and picture hat of black velvet with birds of Paradise and gold roses.

Miss Louise Eleanor Nugent was in white tailored serge with Gainsborough of bluish velvet with white plumes. Others present were Mesdames M. A. McMillen, John D. McNair, John Wickerson Jr., Byron Nugent, A. W. Niedringhaus, John Ockerson, Frank Obear, David N. O'Neil, Gerold O'Reilly, John H. Overall, Samuel Plant, Arthur Partridge Harry L. Dinner Gown For A Débutante

Virginal beauty characterizes this latest word in a débutante's dinner gown by Weeks, who signed this photograph for you, himself.

Gentian blue charmeuse satin forms the robe. The tunic is of mousseline in the same adorable shade, embroidered in pearls in an XVIII. century design.

The sash draped over one shoulder passes thence under the tunic about the figure, reappearing low on the skirt.

These ideally graceful gowns require that the figure shall be exquisitely proportioned, slender as a reed, yet as souple as untrammelled nature.

The entire burden of producing this season's fashionable lines, which are so genuinely charming, is laid upon the corset.

The girlish, naturally perfect figure needs one type of corset to guard this perfection from "going off."

The over-plump and too solid figure needs another type of corset to guide the figure to added grace.

The too slender figure requires another type of corset to simulate naturally elegant lines.

All these types and many others are included in the C/B à la Spirite corsets. Ask the best corset saleswoman you know. For sale at all leading retailers'. Prices $1 to $10.

Watch this space next Sunday for the latest cable from our Paris Fashion Bureau.

The cables in full are published every month in a free illustrated book, "C/B Style Cables." Ask at the nearest corset counter, or send to Strouse, Adler & Co., 45 East 17th Street, New York, and 220 Adams St., Chicago, Ills.

Announcement

Lovers of the best in music will be pleased to know that we are now ready to show at our warerooms the wonderful

Tel-Electric Piano Player

Which has caused such a sensation in the Eastern Cities and Europe. The Tel-Electric is the only Piano Player in the world

That is attachable to any piano.
That remains invisible if desired.
That plays your piano from a distance.
That uses metal music rolls.
That plays without your assistance or under your absolute control.
That has the expression cut into the roll.

The Tel-Electric is truly a perfected Piano Player. You should hear it play, if only to keep posted on the advances in the musical world. The Tel-Electric Piano Player can be seen and purchased at our warerooms only.

The Minerva Club met Friday, Oct. 28, at the home of Mrs. A. W. Latimer, 4132 Flora boulevard.

With winter's approach many appeals are reaching clubwomen on the need of little delicacies for the poor sick in several public hospitals and it was decided that the Minerva Club would contribute jellies for the Children's and Martha Parson's Hospitals.

A continuation of the study of "Religion" afforded an insight into the widely differing beliefs held by the Unitarians, Congregationlists, Christian Scientists and the Ethical Society adherents, Mrs. W. A. Mitchell, Mrs. Fred Armstrong, Mrs. C. S. Jones and Mrs. E. J. Norris handling their subjects very satisfactorily.

Musical numbers rendered by Mrs. Arthur Haill and Mrs. Charles Yoder were much enjoyed. After partaking of dainty refreshments, the club adjourned to meet Nov. 11, with Mrs. J. A. Weaver, Rankin boulevard, Richmond Heights, St. Louis County.

Walls, Floors, Doors, Windows

The art of decorating a house depends upon good taste and experience in the selection of textures and fabrics, both in design and color. It is a sincere study if you would get the best results, and every room is worthy of your earnest thought.

We have learned that it is not always possible to decorate a room properly unless you start with the walls. Therefore we have established our own

Interior Decorating Department

And have engaged a full force of artists, painters and paper hangers, and have collected from all over the world wall decorations in fibers and papers of various kinds—a most unusual line of designs, which are new and effective.

It is a notable item that some of the very best effects are not at all expensive.

The appearance of the boards in a floor also gave us considerable trouble until we employed our own finishers, and we are now prepared to take off the old stained and marred floor surface and refinish it like new—bright, but not slippery. This is an art in itself.

Our next step is to select a suitable rug, in harmony with the color scheme, the texture of, which shall be most appropriate to the use of the room.

We next study the contrast between the rooms, and we lead from one color scheme to another by the expert selection of the door draperies.

The windows receive our next attention, and we make a combination of laces and overdrapes which gives the finishing touches and makes the proper background for the furniture to be used.

If the woodwork is out of harmony we will refinish it. If it has a beautiful finish we hang the curtains to the sill inside the frame. We in no case advise the elaborate draperies which were once so popular, unless the style of the room requires it.

All of these things should be considered at the same time.

We invite you to come in at any time and talk it over, whether we can be of assistance or not. We have all the materials that heart could wish to produce any effect desired.

No More Wrinkles

BEAUTIFUL BUST

Superfluous Hair Vanishes Like Magic by a New Discovery

Pimples and Blackheads Removed Forever

Let this woman send you free, everything she agrees, and beautify your face and form quickly.

SHE LOOKS LIKE A GIRL OF 18

This clever woman has not a wrinkle upon her face; she has perfected a marvelous, simple method which brought a wonderful change in her face in a single night. For removing wrinkles and developing the bust, her method is truly wonderfully rapid.

She made herself the woman she is today and brought about the wonderful change in her appearance in a secret and pleasant manner. Her complexion is as clear and fair as that of a child. She turned her scrawny figure into a beautiful bust and well-developed form. She had thin, scrawny eyelashes and eyebrows, which could scarcely be seen, and she made them long, thick and beautiful by her own methods and removed every blackhead and pimple from her face in a single night.

You can imagine her joy, when by her own simple discovery she removed every wrinkle from her face and developed her thin neck and form to beautiful proportions.

Nothing is taken into the stomach, no common massage, no harmful plasters, no worthless creams.

By her new process she removes wrinkles and develops the whole figure plump and fat.

It is simply astonishing the hundreds of women who write in regarding the wonderful results from this new beauty treatment, which is beautifying their face and form after beauty doctors and other methods failed.

Mary Merritt of Wis. writes, her wrinkles have entirely disappeared. Miss Hanson writes, her bust is beautifully developed and wrinkles gone. Mrs. Markham writes, her wrinkles vanished over night.

Miss Alice Day writes, every blackhead and pimple has vanished forever.

The valuable new beauty book which Madame Cuningham is sending free to thousands of women is certainly a blessing to womankind, as it makes known her remarkable methods of beautifying the face and figure of unattractive women.

All readers should write her at once and she will send you absolutely free all she agrees, and will show readers how to remove wrinkles in 8 hours; how to develop the bust; how to make long, thick eyelashes and eyebrows; how to remove superfluous hair; how to remove blackheads, pimples and freckles; how to remove dark circles under the eyes; how to quickly remove double chin; how to build up sunken cheeks and add flesh to the body; how to darken gray hair and stop hair falling; how to stop forever perspiration odor.

Simply address your letter to Evelyn Cuningham, Suite 1021, 1 Randolph St., Chicago, Ill., and don't send any money, because particulars are free, as this charming woman is [illegible]

FAT IS FATAL

Fat is fatal to Health, Comfort, Happiness and often fatal to Life.

Let me send you a trial treatment FREE OF CHARGE. You can get rid of your fat safely, surely and quickly.

What my treatment has accomplished in hundreds of cases. It will help you! Try it!

E. A. Richards, Mayor of Holly Hill, Fla., says: Your treatment cured me permanently, it has been two years since I stopped taking it and have not regained a pound.

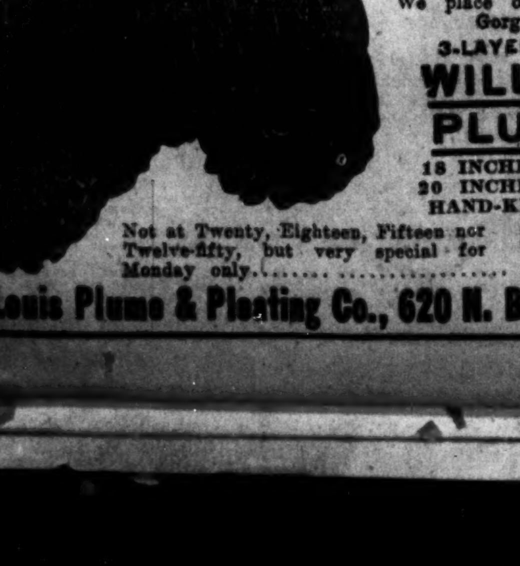

Rev. Mary Kimball, 112 So. Jackson St., Janesville, Wis., says: Have tested and proven the merits of your reduction remedies, none of my garments fit me; they seem made for another woman.

SPECIAL FREE OFFER I have had such wonderful success with my method of reducing superfluous fat that I have decided to offer for a limited time—free trial treatments. Hundreds of testimonials on file show that my treatment takes off fat at the rate of 5 to 7 pounds a week and what is more, that the fat does not return when the treatment is finished. No person is so fat but what it will have the desired effect, no matter where the excess fat is located—stomach, bust, hips, cheeks, neck—it will quickly vanish without starving, exercising or in any way interfering with your customary habits. My treatment is endorsed by physicians, because of its easy, natural elimination of abnormal ness and its beneficial effect on the whole system. Perfectly harmless; easy and quick results. Rheumatism, Asthma, Kidney and Heart Troubles leave as fat is reduced. Don't take my word for this; I will prove it at my own expense. Write to-day for free trial treatment and illustrated booklet on the subject; it costs you nothing. Address Dr. J. Spillenger, Dept. 1301-E, 41 West 25th Street, New York City.

REORGANIZATION & EXPANSION SALE

A Few Facts Relative to This Sale—Get Them Firmly Fixed in Your Mind

WE ARE NOT GOING TO MOVE from our present location. We ARE going to enlarge our present organization on Jan. 1st, 1911, by extending to, and opening stores in 2 or 3 other cities, BUT we will still maintain the old location—"BROADWAY, NEAR LOCUST"—and continue moving onward and upward, as in the past. As stated, in a previous announcement, all merchandise on hand and contracted for, amounting to nearly $500,000 must be sold before the new organization, with the new interests and personnel, takes possession.

A ONE-HALF MILLION DOLLAR Stock Must be Sold by Jan. 1st. An Ordinary Five Months' Business Crowded Into Two. This Is the Task We have Set Ourselves to do.

TO DO THIS we realize calls for tremendous price concessions—a sacrifice of much of our profits. This we do not mind if we can accomplish our purpose. The terms of the new organization makes provision for any actual loss of profits necessary to completely dispose of all present stocks. So you can readily see why we are in a position to offer you NOW, fresh, new assortments of high-class apparel, right at the time you need them, at lower prices than you usually find in a January clearing sale when assortments are broken.

NOTE THE FEW Items Mentioned Below. They Are Specimens of the Values That Will Greet You at Every Turn—In Every Department.

YOUR FACE

You are doubtless aware that one who has a PRETTY FACE, FREE FROM BLEMISHES, WRINKLES, FROWNS AND IMPERFECT FEATURES has about her an air which compels admiration and attention and almost invariably wields an influence which must not be underestimated. First impressions count for or against you in BUSINESS or SOCIAL RELATIONS. To one who has a PRETTY FACE the world is apt to be generous, while turning indifferently away from repulsive FACES, with PIMPLES, MOLES, WARTS, SCARS, [illegible], UNREFINED COMPLEXIONS, BAGGY EYELIDS, OUTSTANDING EARS, HUMPED, DISHED OR PUG NOSE. If you are satisfied with YOUR FACE this appeal to your good judgment may not interest you; but on the other hand, if you feel that there is room for improvement, I solicit a call from you at your convenience. I am a registered physician and surgeon, skin and face specialist. Personally in charge. Hours: 9 to 6; Sunday, 10 to 12. Consultation free. Call or write.

RULE PREDICTS A REALTY BOOM AFTER ELECTION

Exchange President's Prophecy Is Based on Defeat of Prohibition.

BIG DEALS WAITING

Bridge Arbitrary, Soon to Go, Only Remaining Damper on Market.

BUSINESS NOW GOOD

If Prohibition Carries, Agents Foresee Exodus of Real Estate Men.

Predicated upon the assumption that prohibition will be defeated, financiers and promoters believe that the election next Tuesday will be followed by a notable revival in the St. Louis realty market. The completion of scores of realty and building operations, embracing large department stores, hotels and apartment houses, and many minor transactions which have been in abeyance by reason of the prohibition issue, will expand operators say, the volume of trade to unprecedented proportions.

"Conditions have been tending for a long time toward a greater St. Louis," declared A. O. Rule, president of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange yesterday, "but the success of prohibition would," he declared, "have a reactionary effect in the growth of the city.

"Attention," Rule says, "is now focused on St. Louis by virtue of the geographical position of the city, which as a manufacturing and distributing center has admittedly surpassing advantages.

Bridge Arbitrary Near End.

"The only obstacle to the growth of the city is the bridge arbitrary. This is destined to be soon broken. Anticipating the removal of the freight embargo, many big concerns are being located in this city, which, obviously, is on the eve of an awakening which promises to mark the most important epoch in the history of its development. As a barrier to the growth of the city, prohibition would eclipse that of the bridge arbitrary.

"While there has been a cessation in large realty and building operations in the city, the situation in St. Louis otherwise, is most gratifying. The office buildings of the city are more than 90 per cent tenanted, and in some instances, entirely occupied, as is the case of the Title Guaranty Trust building, formerly the Lincoln Trust building, at the southwest corner of Seventh and Chestnut streets, which, according to its agents, Franciscus & Kunz, is now completely occupied. The demand for wholesale and manufacturing buildings exceeds the supply, vacancies being only in the retail districts where rents have been raised to prohibitory figures.

Promise of Untenanted Houses.

"The exit of the unemployed from the city with the exclusion of many large industries from St. Louis would, real estate men declare, glut the market with vacant dwellings and flats. This would cause great depreciation in realty values, and effect the ruin of many persons whose accumulations of years have been invested in these properties, but which would go glimmering with the advent of prohibition.

"Many real estate agents as well as a great number of tenants, according to reports, have announced that they will leave the city if prohibition prevails. Accordingly, realty agents are advising property owners to use their influence to defeat the amendment. Practically all real estate men will be on duty Tuesday to fight the amendment."

Aid Given to Committee.

Gerald B. O'Reilly, president of the M. B. O'Reilly R. and I. Co., and John Bull, constituting a committee appointed by the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange, collected $500 from realty dealers yesterday to help pay the expenses of the Citizens' Defense Committee in its campaign against prohibition.

O'Reilly said that many dealers whose names are not included in the list had already contributed directly to the Citizens' Defense Committee.

The subscriptions obtained by O'Reilly and Bull are as follows:

Storm & Farish, $25; Barada-Ghio Real Estate Co., $25; Fisher & Co., $25; John S. Blake & Bro. Realty Co., $25; George F. Bergfeld Realty Co., $25; Haydel Realty Co., $25; McNair & Harris Realty Co., $25; Giraldin Bro. Realty Co., $25; Aiple & Hemmelmann, $25; Dammert Land Title Co., $25; M. B. O'Reilly R. and I. Kingsbury Apartment Nearly Full.

The new Kingsbury Apartment building at Kingsbury place and Clara avenue, according to the Commonwealth Trust Co., the agent, is practically filled. There is only one vacancy in the building, the indications being that it will be filled within the next week. The Kingsbury Apartment building is an eight-story fireproof structure, embodying all the latest ideas of an apartment building.

TWIN SPRING FARM SOLD FOR $20,000 TO C. A. HARTMAN

Beautiful Country Home of 32 Acres to Be Improved and Occupied by Him.

The sale of Twin Spring Farm, a country place of 32 acres on the Watson road, one-quarter mile south of the Clayton road, and about one mile west of the Log Cabin Club, is reported by the Mercantile Trust Co. The purchaser was Charles A. Hartman, a retired manufacturer, now residing at the Hamilton Hotel in this city.

This is an attractive country place, the improvements consisting of an old-fashioned log house which was erected more than sixty years ago, but which is in an almost perfect state of preservation. A second story of four rooms was added, also a kitchen and maid's room, making it a thoroughly modern and attractive bungalow of nine rooms and bath. Other improvements on the place include a caretaker's cottage, dairy spring house, stable and other outbuildings.

There are two ever-flowing springs, from which the farm takes its name, also a large fish pool of running water, which is an attractive feature of the place. The main house occupies a high and well shaded hill, commanding an excellent view of the Clayton road and the surrounding country.

The property was sold for the account of C. H. McMillan for $20,000. This place adjoins the handsome country home now being erected by Charles L. Holman, vice-president of the Laclede Gaslight Co.

The seller purchased this farm about four years ago and made numerous improvements and has lived there during the summer. There has been a great increase in land values in the Clayton road district in the last few years. The advent of the automobile and the desire for country places adjacent to the city has created a decided activity in this class of property and a number of recent sales in that locality have been effected.

Hartman will make still further improvements to the place, equipping it for an all-the-year-round home. The place will be in charge of a caretaker during the winter and Hartman will make it his permanent home in the early spring.

MERCANTILE TRUST COMPANY SIGN LIGHTS LOCUST STREET

The Mercantile Trust Co.'s big shield-shaped sign, proclaiming it to be "an institution for savings," is a brilliant nigthly feature of Locust street. The Eighth street corner, which it lights, is one of the best lighted spots in what Col. Roosevelt called the sparkling city of St. Louis.

The sign can be plainly read from Market street, four blocks south, and from an equal distance west.

ST. LOUIS LOSS $3,388,680 IN RENT IF PROHIBITION WINS

J. P. Hermann Figures This as Part of Annual Cost of Voting Out Liquor.

Property owners of St. Louis would lose through prohibition, in rents alone, $3,388,680 annually, according to statistics compiled by John P. Herrmann, real estate dealer. Herrmann publishes his statistics on what the result of prohibition would be, as an advertisement in Sunday's Post-Dispatch.

An additional sum of $2,213,643, Herrmann figures, would be lost in license revenue by the city, State and Government. Property values in St. Louis to the amount of $38,886,800 would be affected, Hermann says.

88 LOTS IN SOUTHWEST PART OF THE CITY ARE TO BE SOLD

Prices for the Property Will Range From $100 to $300 for Each One.

A new subdivision in the southwest part of the city is being prepared to be put on the market Nov. 19. It will comprise 88 lots 30x125 and will be offered to the public at prices ranging from $100 to $300 per lot.

The property is located on Fyler avenue, east of the Watson road. It is owned and will be managed by the Fyler Place Investment Co.

Church Buys Corner.

The St. Paul's German Evangelical Church, now located at Ninth and Lafayette avenue, has purchased from Hanorah C. Halligan of Davenport, Ia., through the Haase Realty Co., the corner of Giles and Potomac streets. The lot fronts 467 feet 8 inches on Giles avenue and 140 feet on Potomac street. They do not contemplate to build in the immediate future, but realizing that the drift of population is westward, have secured this site, as property is enhancing in this locality very rapidly.

James C. Espy Realty Co.

The James C. Espy Realty Co. reports the sale of the modern 9-room brick dwelling at 6032 Clemens avenue, from Waller and Lula Duncan Edwards to Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. McClellan, who are now occupying the property, for $8250. The lot fronts 50x185 feet and the dwelling, just completed, is equipped with hot-water heating, hardwood floors, etc.

Leisner Realty Co.

Leisner Realty and Building Co. reports the sale of a lot in Webster Groves, 100x160, from W. G. Langbein to J. A. Hobart. The purchaser intends to improve in the near future.

Shenandoah Avenue Sale.

Greer Real Estate Co. reports the sale of lot on south side of Shenandoah avenue, 150 west of Klemm avenue, size 33 1-3x150 feet. Sold for J. H. Buss to a client, who intends to build a home.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

FARTHER WEST RETAIL SECTION FOR DOWNTOWN

Opening of Store Covering Block Extends Shopping District.

NEW LEASES MADE

Clothiers Take New Building, Department Store Increases Space.

250 HOUSES PLANNED

New Homes in University City Will Cost $2,000,000, Is Estimate.

With the exception of several downtown leases, few transactions of more than ordinary interest were reported in realty circles during the week.

The most important of these was that by which the Max Weil Clothing Co. will occupy for ten years the first and second floors and basement of the eight-story building at the northwest corner of Eighth street and Washington avenue. The lessor was the Lindell Real Estate Co., of which John D. Davis is president, and which only recently obtained control of the property under a 99-year lease.

John H. Bogue of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. effected the transaction with Weil, for whose occupancy the building will be completely remodeled. Weil is at present located in the former Simmons building, at Broadway and St. Charles street, in a men's and boys' clothing business, but he desires a more central location.

With the locating of Schaper Bros. at Eighth street and Washington avenue, where the firm will occupy an eight-story building, comprising the entire block bounded by Washington avenue and St. Charles, Eighth and Ninth streets, John D. Davis, president of the Lindell Real Estate Company, has created a new retail quarter, which is destined to be the pivot of the shopping center of the city, and which was infused with life yesterday when the big department store was formally opened.

The Lindell Real Estate Co. also leased, through the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., the building at 807 Washington avenue to the Leonhard Fur Co. The building will be completely remodeled for the fur company, which will occupy it Feb. 1.

Aiding Retail District.

The Lammert Furniture Company, Tenth street and Washington avenue, and Neustetter's at Seventh street, form, with Schaper Bros., the westward vanguard of retail Washington avenue.

The Lindell Real Estate Co. is exercising all its wealth and influence in order to make this section the retail stronghold of the city.

The Mercantile Trust Co. has leased the eighth floor of the Model Building, northeast corner of Seventh and Washington avenue, to the Grand-Leader for a term of years, to be used as its alteration department.

The Grand-Leader found it necessary to lease this floor, owing to the fact that the present space occupied by their alteration department is too small to handle its increasing business in this department. The lease was made for the account of Jacob Haas.

Another important lease effected by the trust company during the week was to Chas. A. Nager & Co., wholesale cigar manufacturers, covering the first floor and basement of property, 314 Olive street, for a long term of years. This lease was effected for the account of Mr. L. D. Dozier.

The Holbrook-Blackwelder Real Estate Trust Co., representing the Dayton Investment Co., has leased the two-story and basement building at 1822 and 1824 Olive street, 50x109 feet, to the Century Electric Co., at an annual rental of $3600. There are 15,000 square feet of floor space in the building, which will be enlarged by the erection of a building in the rear of the premises. A substantial inquiry is reported for Olive street buildings which will be augmented by the opening of the new big Central Library Building at Thirteenth and Olive streets. Holbrook-Blackwelder company reports that the outlook for this thoroughfare, which is destined to be one of the most important trade centers of the city, is most reassuring.

Henry E. Bartling, who controls much valuable central realty, says that the situation as to investment holdings has never been more reassuring. He has received several offers for high-class holdings during the week which he believes will eventuate in sales.

House Must Cost $5000.

Plans, according to the Holbrook-Blackwelder Real Estate Co., which has just completed the sale of 500 lots in this section, are being made for the erection of 250 houses in University City to cost, approximately, $2,000,000. The houses will be built in sections 1, 2 and 3 in University Heights, in West Portland place and in Montclaire, and will range in price from $5000 to $30,000.

The restrictions of University City provide for a high order of buildings, which insure the exclusive character of the addition. No house costing less than $5000 can be erected in University City proper, and in the northern section of West Portland place.

The majority of purchasers in the three tracts have bought the lots with the intention of improving them with homes, the probability being that at least 400 houses soon will be in process of construction in this quarter, admittedly one of the most attractive and exclusive residential sections in the St. Louis district.

All the lots knocked down at the auction sale were at prices which caused predictions of big profits, and many re-sales have already been made by speculators at substantial advances.

The subway project to connect University City and St. Louis County with downtown St. Louis has been revived with the awakening of building in this section. The Olive street or Delmar line now extends to the Woman's Magazine building, while the McPherson avenue line, which has recently been extended to Mellville avenue, west of Parkview, will soon have terminus at West Portland place and Pennsylvania avenue, the Clayton branch of the Suburban line now running along the southern boundary of West Portland place.

The following are a few of those who have bought lots in University City, which in the immediate future will be improved with handsome homes.

Washington avenue: J. L. Williams, George Thies, J. G. Eagar, James Stanley, Charles E. Rubicam and W. J. Kennedy. Kingsbury boulevard: J. T. Johnson, George R. Baker, C. J. Jennings and Ritchie. Delmar boulevard: A. H. Kent.

William Butts, the realty dealer, has just erected a handsome home on Washington avenue. Jackson Johnson, whose residence embraces an entire block, fronting on Delmar boulevard, will erect a handsome residence on this thoroughfare just west of his home, for his daughter Florence, who recently married Bradford Shinkle. Frank Rand will also build on Delmar boulevard, west of Jackson Johnson.

A. W. Morris, the Granite City magnate, who is residing at the Buckingham, is also casting about in University City for a homesite. Morris was in company with W. J. Holbrook at the auction sale, and wanted a lot on Delmar boulevard, but to his disappointment only one lot was offered on that thoroughfare.

The Holbrook-Blackwelder Real Estate Trust Co. reports several good sales at Kenwood Springs. The concern has acquired in this addition 12 houses at a figure that will enable it to resell them at attractive prices.

The houses range in price from $2500 to $5500 and afford an opportunity for a decidedly advantageous purchase.

CLOTHING IS MADE OF STONE

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—A suit of clothes made of stone is being shown by a Broadway clothing dealer. The fabric from which they are made was imported from Russia. It is manufactured from the fiber of a filmentous stone from the Siberian mines.

The material is soft and pliable and when soiled has only to be placed in a fire to be made thoroughly clean.

STAKED LIFE ON SOLITAIRE GAME, LOSES AND PAYS

Player Kills Himself When Unlucky Ace and Nine of Spades Are Turned.

Playing at solitaire with death, Charles W. Eggers staked his life and lost. Two upturned cards told the story of the fatal game to those who found Eggers' body yesterday morning in his room at 4411A St. Louis avenue, several hours after he had swallowed poison.

The ace and the nine of spades, which Eggers, a frequent solitaire player, used to regard as the most unlucky of card combinations, were the cards which, separated from their suit, were lying on the table. The rest of the cards were arranged as for solitaire.

After the ill-omened combination had come out of the deck, Eggers had drunk a mixture of carbolic acid and wood alcohol. He was found by Norman Hodge, who conducts the boarding house were Eggers lived. Eggers had played cards Friday night with Hodge and his wife.

Lonesome Without Family.

Separation from his wife and three children, who were in Columbus, O., and inability to find a place here which would enable him to bring them to St. Louis to live, had worried Eggers greatly. He left a letter to Hodge in which he declared he preferred death to living longer apart from his family.

"I've had hard luck all the way and hardly any money," he wrote. "Watch and chain are pawned, and I owe for my suit of clothes. No good job, and besides, I am away from my dear wife and babies and no chance to get them here. * * * See that my dear little Marie gets my old silver dollar."

The coin spoken of was one which Eggers carried as a luck-piece. It was a dollar of 1842.

Eggers formerly ran a cigar store in Columbus. He came to St. Louis in June, and first was salesman for a mineral water company, then an employe of a shoe factory.

THREE-YEAR-OLD CHILD IS KILLED BY PEANUT KERNEL

Inflammation Results From Swallowing It Whole and Operation Fails.

The kernel of a peanut, lodged in the throat of Ethel Schmitz, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Schmitz, 3910 Virginia avenue, caused her death.

Mrs. Schmitz and a woman friend were downtown shopping Tuesday, and Mrs. Schmitz took Ethel along. The other woman, bought some peanuts and gave them to Ethel. She swallowed one of the kernels without chewing it and it lodged in her throat. The efforts of a doctor to dislodge it were unavailing.

By Thursday, her condition, due to resulting inflammation, had become so serious that she was taken to St. Anthony's Hospital. An operation was performed, but it was unsuccessful, and the child died Tuesday night.

An inquest was held Saturday. The verdict was strangulation. The woman who gave the peanut to the child is prostrated with grief, although not the slightest blame attaches to her.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

PHYSICIAN ENTIRELY CURED OF ECZEMA

By the Use of Cuticura Remedies, Prescribes Them and Says They have Cured when Other Formulas Failed. They Always Bring Results.

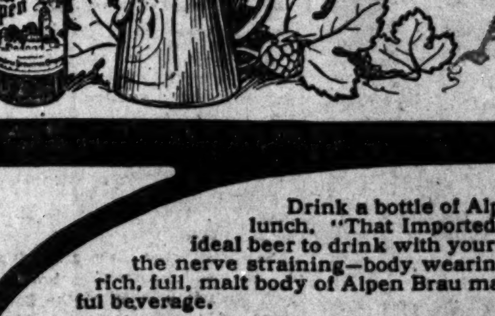

"My face was afflicted with eczema in the year 1897. I used the Cuticura Remedies and was entirely cured. I am a practicing physician and very often prescribe Cuticura Resolvent and Cuticura Soap in cases of eczema, and they have cured where other formulas have failed.

"I am not in the habit of endorsing patent medicines, but when I find remedies possessing true merit, such as the Cuticura Remedies do, I am broad-minded enough to proclaim their virtues to the world. I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and must say I find your Remedies A No. 1. I still find the Cuticura Remedies as good as ever. They always bring results. G. M. Fisher, M.D., Big Pool, Md., Dec. 4, 1909."

DOCTOR RECOMMENDED THE CUTICURA REMEDIES.

"When I was ten or twelve years old I had a scalp disease, something like scald-head, though it wasn't that. I suffered for several months and most of my hair came out. Finally they had a doctor to see me and he recommended the Cuticura Remedies. They cured me in a few weeks. I have used the Cuticura Remedies, also, for a breaking out on my hands and was benefited a great deal. I haven't had any more trouble with the scalp disease. Miss Jessie F. Buchanan, R. F. D. 3, Hamilton, Ga., Jan. 7, 1909."

Cuticura Soap (25c.), Cuticura Ointment (50c.), Cuticura Resolvent (50c.) and Cuticura Pills (25c.) are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., 135 Columbus Ave., Boston, Mass. Mailed free, 32-page Cuticura Book on Treatment of Skin and Scalp Humors

Post-Dispatch's Complete Weekly Review of Markets and Finance

STEEL SCORES NEW RECORD ON VERY HEAVY BUYING AND HOLDS STOCK LIST STEADY

Price Reaches 81¾ Before Realizing Sales Check the Advance.

MONEY IS A FACTOR

Banks Show Decreased Reserves and Loans Widen Over Deposits.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The stock market threw off the restraint of the early part of the week due to fears of the money outlook. The later strength was attributed to hopeful views of the steel and copper trades founded on reports of Steel orders from the railroads and buying of copper for future delivery by exporters.

The easing of foreign money markets opened the way to borrowing for New York account by sales of bankers' finance bills on the exchange market. It was believed that this borrowing supplied the resources for the stock market operations on a large scale.

The recent speculation in the market has, however, been largely of a manipulative and professional character, and the developments on which it has been based have originated more in Wall street brokerage hours, than in the actual business centers of the country.

The ease with which stocks declined in the late trading Friday shows the light public participation in the market, and its weak technical position for most of the buying has been confined entirely to one or two issues of prominence, as Reading and Steel. The shorts have been eliminated, and the rise, if continued, must be based largely on manipulative purchases from the interests running the present campaign.

The fear of a further raise in the Bank of England discount rate is passing, although some little stringency in the open money market is indicated over the first of the year. Traders are paying more attention to the discrepancy between loans and deposits shown in the local banking position.

The statement of the banks Saturday shows the surplus reserve down to $4,898,000, while the surplus of loans over deposits now totals over $38,000,000. In only one year has a substantial surplus in loans over deposits permitted of a pronounced bull speculation. That was in the Harriman boom of 1906. Even at that time the fallacy of the movement was ultimately shown for the market quickly ran into the liquidating movement which ended in the panic.

The unfavorable loan position existing at present could be materially benefited with a heavy export movement from our enormous grain supplies and prices during the week touched the low point on the crop on wheat and very close to an export basis.

A shifting of accounts to Paris may also stay a local adjustment of the banking position until our export movement assumes sufficient importance to repay any obligations that may be incurred.

The fundamentals on which the market is based, outside of the money situation, appear unusually sound, and seem to warrant higher prices. The railroads will benefit from traffic of a 3,000,000,000 bu corn crop, a record breaker in oats and a normal wheat crop. The agitation against increased freight rates will shortly be acute, but the "street" believes that ultimately a moderate increase will be sanctioned.

Railroad earnings, in the gross, are good, and while the net returns show decreases, it is policy at present they should for, poor statement in the net, only help the roads to convince the Interstate Commerce Commission that they can not exist under the present heavy operating charges.

Wall street looks on the election of Dix as a certainty, and believes a Democratic House at Washington a bull card, but this is yet to be demonstrated, for although it may tie up adverse corporation legislation for a couple of years, it will also open a heated campaign on the tariff question, which is not entirely in the interest of bull speculation.

The beef steer market opened last week in unfavorable condition. With heavy receipts at all Western points, the buying contingent hammered the price level fully 10@15c. There was a decrease in supplies the latter half of the week and control of the market reverted to the selling side, who forced a 10@15c advance, placing the market back to where it stood two weeks ago. Top of the trade was $7.15. Bulk of the decent to good steers landed between $6.25@7. Large share of the receipts were fleshy and medium natives between $5.25@6 and Kansas and Western steers of fair to good grass kill at $4.75@5.50.

Heifer and cow market held slow tone generally throughout the period. Values mostly steady, though the big, fat, heavy beef cows, those of $4.50@5 value declined fully 25c.

Veal Steady; Stockers Fall.

Market for veal stock was in active, steady condition throughout. Best vealers went at $9.25 and most sales were at $8.50@9. Heavies and medium-weight vealers sold mostly at $4.50@7, while poor-grade vealers went at $5.50@7.75.

Movement in stock and feeder steers was broad last week. Considering the heavy country shipments and the fact that receipts were also large, the market held rather good tone, closing steady to a dime lower. The weakness scored was on the plainer feeders and the poor light stockers. Best feeders sold for $5.15, while most of the desirable kinds sold at $4.60@4.90. Plain and heavy feeders went at $4.35@4.75, and large share of the common and poor grade stockers at $3.50@3.90.

Around 550 cars of Southern stuff arrived last week, which was equal to the volume of two weeks ago. Steers were in moderate proportion, the caked grass weighty grades sold at $5.30@5.50, and a large share of fair to pretty good kind of grassers at $4.60@5.10. Common Mexican steers sold at $3.90@4.10 and some plain Oklahoma beeves at $4.35. Market was full steady, closing with strong tendencies.

Large shares of the receipts were cows and mixed lots which commanded steady prices. The good killing kinds went at $3.75@4.25, while canners and cutters, which predominated, brought $3.10@3.50.

Hogs Go a Notch Lower.

The supply of hogs last week was the best that has been received for several weeks, but at that it was only a moderate supply and shows a loss when compared with the number received during the corresponding week last year. The quality of hogs continue good and very few small pigs were received.

The increase in the number of hogs received caused the market to decline and the week basis was the lowest the market has been on since last February. The top at the opening of the week was $8.90, but dropped down to $8.60 by the middle of the week and remained close to that basis the balance of the week. The market averaged fully 50 cents lower than the previous week.

The best sellers were the good grade light and medium weight hogs, as there was a good demand for them from the shippers and butchers, and the packers were forced to pay the prices in order to get what they needed, but the heavy hogs met with no demand except from the packers and they were the hogs that showed the greatest loss and were the slowest sale.

A good many heavy hogs sold from $7.75@8.25, and rough sows and stags sold at $7@7.50 as a rule. Little pigs were slow sale all week, as there was but little demand for them and that was only for the very best.

Sheep on a Decline.

The sheep trade was on a slightly lower basis last week than the week previous and therefore on the lowest basis it has been for several weeks. However, the decline did not amount to more than 15@25c at any time or in any place. Thin offerings suffered the most and towards the latter part of the week they were hard to sell on a satisfactory basis.

The best lambs sold from $6.35@6.65, fair to medium offerings brought $5.50@6.25, including most of the Southwest lambs. Best culls sold at $4.50@5, little common to fair culls $3.50@4.25. Most of the mutton sheep sold at $4@4.15, with those that were but little or no better than stockers at $3.75@3.90. Some plain half-fat Western ewes sold at $3.50@3.90.

The stocker trade was on a steady basis, but at that it was a dull market from the fact that the demand was not very good. Best stockers brought $3.25@3.35, fair offerings $2.25@3, old cull ewes $1@2. Bucks sold all week at $3.

Last week was another active week at the horse market. Approximately 1800 head of native horses of a mixed variety sold under the hammer in the auction. Each day's auction was well attended by buyers from all over the country and all first-class offerings of quality sold at good steady prices, with toppy Southern horses selling at strong prices. Dealers enjoyed a good trade throughout the week. There was a good clearance out of first hands at the close of the auction. Commission men predict a heavy run of horses for next week and state that there will be plenty of buyers here from various sections of the country.

The mule trade for the past week was active on nice, smooth, well finished cotton mules.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—American securities were quietly supported here today at a fraction over parity, but business was restricted pending the election in the United States.

BREWERY BONDS FEATURE LOCAL STOCK TRADING

Sales Are Made at $93, or About $5 Higher for the Week.

ST. LOUIS CLEARING HOUSE STATEMENT.

This week	76,714,404	6,808,320
Last week	72,360,212	5,704,647
Last year	77,388,460	6,268,718

Local securities showed a distinct tendency to improve during the past week, the buying power in the market broadening considerable. Many, usually quiet issues, were brought into the bid and asked list, indicating that the outside investment public are inclined to enter the market.

The near approach of the election and confidence in the defeat of the prohibition amendment, was reflected in a pronounced rise in brewery bonds. Early bids were at $88.25, compared to sales the preceding week at $88.50. When the demand entered the market the price jumped to $91, then on to $93, with bidders still active at this figure.

United Railways preferred sold early at $42.25, then dropped to $41, for small lots, but came back quickly to $42.75, and closed at this figure. Railways 4s were quiet and firm at $78.37½ to $78.75. One lot of United Railways common sold at $9.87½ and one at $10.

National Candy common recovered much of its recent loss, caused by the liquidation of a weak speculative account. Early sales were made at $18, and late ones at $20.12½. The stock closed in demand at $20.25.

The bank list was firm throughout, and City National Bank stock was bid up to $120, before the announcement of the company's absorption by the Central National Bank. Following the announcement the stock sold at $115 and $112.50, and closed at $112 bid. National Bank of Commerce was higher at $210 and $210.50, and closing bids at $211.12½. Commonwealth Trust sold at $102.50 and $103. Mississippi Valley was easy on sales at $298 and $297.50.

Bankers take an optimistic view of the outlook. They point out that the agitation for prohibition has made buyers conservative in all lines, while on the local Stock Exchange speculation has been held in check, at the same time that Wall street has advanced materially. This they say should make the local improvement the more pronounced, when the weight of the prohibition scare is lifted and business assumes its natural aspect.

Money continues in good demand between 5 and 6 per cent, but no stringency is anticipated over the turn of the year. Local institutions put their financial house in order as much as possible when the talk of higher money was prevalent in the summer time. Bankers say this preparation has been sufficient to eliminate the likelihood of even a temporary stringency.

St. Louis, situated in the center of the corn belt, which has broken all records for a yield of over 3,000,000,000 bushels, should reap the full benefit of the prosperity of the farming interests throughout the State once the uncertainty of the election has passed.

COTTON ACTIVE ON FROST AND SIGHT REPORTS

Estimates Vary Sharply and Traders Draw Their Own Conclusions.

The past week has been marked by an exceedingly active cotton market. The wide diversity of opinion concerning the prospective size of the crop, the different ideas regarding the amount of damage done by frosts which have now occurred over the entire belt and the apprehension resulting from the failure of the movement to increase according to expectations, have all combined to create a sort of unsettled status of sentiment and have furnished ample basis for vigorous trading.

The movement of cotton into sight is the vital factor of the present situation. Though, according to the reports of the Bureau of Agriculture, the ginning has been nearly normal, the amount of cotton received at ports and counted interior towns is still about 400,000 bales short of this date last year. The fact that last year's crop was only 10,600,000 bales and that the movement shows no sign as yet of even making up the 400,000 bale shortage, to say nothing of the additional 1,500,000 bales which must show up if the crop is to reach the amount popularly expected, constitutes a proposition most dangerous to the bears.

Frost Damage Severe.

Reports from practically the entire belt state that damage from the frosts of the last two or three days in October is quite extensive. Oct. 27 is not particularly an early date for killing frost and those who are inclined to credit the damage reports base their belief upon the fact that in most cases the low temperatures resulted not merely in a heavy killing frost, but in a severe freeze. Another feature unfavorable to the crop is the suddenness with which the cold weather occurred after several weeks of comparatively high temperatures. Many very good authorities think that the yield will suffer to the extent of from 300,000 to 500,000 bales as a result of the cold weather.

The New York Journal of Commerce, in its special report, says that cotton prospects in Arkansas and Tennessee are brighter than a month ago. Picking is backward, but proceeding rapidly, with only a small proportion being held. There are good top-crop prospects in Tennessee. All of the Journal of Commerce reports in October were very favorable and in striking contrast to reports of deterioration which usually come during that period of the year.

Spot Cotton Easier.

Spot cotton has been getting easier all over the country. This is attributed largely to the fact that the demand during October came, for the most part, from those who were short for shipment during that month and who are now either altogether out of the market or else more indifferent buyers. Business in the Memphis market has been fairly brisk, however. Middling cotton there is said to be bringing about 14.5-16 cents. Galveston and St. Louis quote middling at 14⅝c and New Orleans at 14¼c.

The Commercial and Financial Chronicle of New York gives the amount of cotton for the present crop which has come into sight to date as 3,359,328, as compared with 3,809,055 bales last year, at this time.

LIQUIDATION IN WHEAT IS THE MARKET FEATURE

Futures Touch the Extreme Low Point on the Crop Before a Rally Starts on Active Short Covering.

Liquidation in wheat was continued on a drastic scale the past week, prices touching the extreme low on the crop, recorded since the collapse of the patten pool last spring. The selling was general from all directions, the only pronounced support in the market coming from the shorts. A late rally lifted the active options about 1½c from the lowest level.

Export markets report absolutely no demand in sight, and buyers are scarce; export prices are 2c to 3c out of line, despite the long break, and foreign markets follow our decline continuously, blocking our chances of export business as long as foreign countries continue to force their supplies on the market.

During the first 11 weeks of the present crop year, beginning Aug. 1, the wheat-importing countries have taken 155,000,000 bu, or 33,000,000 bu more than during the same season last year. The latest Broomhall estimate shows the importing countries requiring during the present crop year only 48,000,000 bu more than they took last year. They have already secured 63 per cent of their additional requirements for the year, getting it mainly from the Danube and the old Indian and Argentine crop.

The United States and Canada have supplied 13,000,000 bu less than during the same period last year. We have hoarded our surplus wheat, while our competitors were supplying Europe. America has probably 100,000,000 bu of wheat, which must be sold abroad or carried over into another crop year. The new Argentine crop will come into the market in January with a surplus that promises much larger than last year, and this competition we must meet with our surplus.

Movement Is Light.

The movement of wheat to market in the Northwest continues light, but supplies are burdensome. Minneapolis public and private stocks of wheat are now about 13,500,000 bu, which with one exception is the largest total in five years, and 8,000,000 bu more than last year at this date. This accumulation has forced a widening of carrying charges which must ultimately be adjusted. Stocks are heavy in other primary markets, while abroad the supply is burdensome.

The European wheat visible shows a further increase of 2,988,000 bu for last week, bringing the total supply up to 104,216,000 bu, against 101,228,000 bu last week and only 80,400,000 bu last year. Last week the supply decreased 68,000 bu, and last year 3,000,000 bu.

Again with all the information from France of short grain crops, there is no indication of the Government taking off the import duty as it has in past years of short crops. Latest advices from that country, sent by a French importer, are, that of the 80,000,000 bu which may be imported to meet French requirements, 40,000,000 bu are already bought and four of the chief ports are loaded with wheat that was bought by speculators.

Over the world's area conditions have been favorable for the sowing of winter wheat. North and South America, India, Australia and Europe have all had good plowing weather, and in many countries the acreage is the heaviest ever planted. This is true also in this country.

Reports from the Argentine show the crop making unusual progress, and Broomhall's agent thinks the increased acreage will offset any drouth damage. An expert estimate on the exportable Argentine surplus places it at 110,000,000 bu. Last year the amount estimated for shipment was 88,000,000 bu. To date 66,736,000 bu of last year's crop has been exported. In 1908, 93,000,000 bu were exported during the same period.

The Northwestern Grain Dealers' Association of Western Canada estimates the Canadian wheat crop on 8,463,000 acres at 12.9 bu per acre, or 104,820,000 bu.

The August estimate was 120,000,000 bu. Last year's yield was 122,000,000 bu. Canada's oats yield is placed at 128,631,000 bu; barley 19,418,000 bu, flax 5,040,000 bu.

Argentine shipments for the week showed:

	This Wk.	Last Wk.	Last Yr.
Wheat	480,000	968,000	368,000
Corn	2,270,000	4,888,000	1,242,000

Shipments of wheat from Jan. 1 to date, 66,736,000 bu, against 93,208,000 bu last year. Corn shipments, 80,559,000 bu, against 78,250,000 bu last year.

Bradstreet's shows wheat east of the Rockies for the week increased 2,439,000 bu. Canada increased 1,675,000 bu. United States and Canada increased 3,514,000 bu. Afloat and to Europe increased 3,000,000 bu. Total increase, 6,514,000 bu. Corn increased 45,000 bu; oats 505,000 bu.

The world's shipments of wheat rolled up 15,424,000 bu, against 13,536,000 bu last week and 14,352,000 bu last year, with an aggregate of 8,348,000 bu from Russia and the Danube. Liverpool stocks also increased 272,000 bu on the week. Estimates place this week's shipments at 14,000,000 bu, against 15,424,000 bu last week and 12,800,000 bu last year.

Wheat on passage also showed an increase for the week of 1,320,000 bu, the supply totaling 38,768,000 bu, against 37,448,000 bu last week and 31,544,000 bu last year.

The domestic visible supply of wheat for the week increased 2,142,000 bu; corn increased 514,000 bu; oats increased 33,000 bu. The total supply shows:

	This Wk.	Last Wk.	Last Yr.
Wheat	40,120,000	37,978,000	27,001,000
Corn	3,510,000	2,900,000	2,652,000
Oats	17,022,000	16,980,000	13,264,000

VISIBLE CHANGES.

	Last Wk.	Last Yr.
Wheat	Inc. 405,000	Inc. 1,351,000
Corn	3,510,000	2,996,000	2,653,000
Oats	17,022,000	16,989,000	13,264,000

Chicago public stocks of wheat are 6,170,000 bu, against 6,400,000 bu last week and 1,701,000 bu last year.

The corn market withstood the selling pressure and showed a firm tendency. Weather is clear over the belt, but some tendency is shown by farmers to hold grain. The world's shipments were liberal, totaling 5,716,000 bu, against 4,549,000 bu last week and 1,535,000 bu last year.

Corn on passage increased 1,725,000 bu, the total being 24,429,000 bu against 22,204,000 bu last week and 12,700,000 bu last year.

The price of corn will depend a good deal on the exports from this country, for this crop can furnish a larger surplus than during recent years, when shipments were much smaller than in the '90s. Then as much as 200,000,000 bu were shipped in the raw grain alone from the States.

It will take real low prices to attract European importing countries, for other exporting countries than the United States have secured larger crops than ever before and they have a bad habit of underselling the States.

Oats showed a steady range throughout the trading after an early weak spell. The speculation is largely confined to the professionals.

KILLS TWO GIRLS WITH AUTO

AKRON, O., Nov. 5.—Earl Sprankle, an automobile garage owner, was arraigned today on a charge of manslaughter in running into a group of high school girls and causing the death of two of them yesterday. The dead girls were Helen Starr and Laura Weldkirk.

Sprankle gave $5000 bond for his appearance next Wednesday.

Since John Quit Drinking

By John's Wife

I'm the happiest little woman,
In all this little town;
And my merry laugh and singing,
Takes the place of sigh and frown,
For JOHN HAS QUIT HIS DRINKING
And is like himself once more,
And the world is just a paradise
With such happiness in store!

One day I read some verses—
"Mary's Miracle," the name,
And I said, that's John exactly,
And I'll send and get the same
So I sent for GOLDEN REMEDY,
(As sly as sly could be)
And I put it in John's supper
And I put it in his tea.

And it didn't taste a little bit;
Had no odor, so, you see—
It was smoothest kind of sailing
For little Doctor Me.
And I watched and prayed and waited,
(And cried some, too, I guess),
And I didn't have the greatest faith,
I'm ashamed now to confess.

And John never thought a minute,
He was being cured of drink,
And soon he's as well as any one,
It makes me cry to think!
Just makes me cry for gladness,
I'm so proud to be his wife—
So nice he is cured of drinking,
And leads a nice, new life.

"Since John he quit a-drinking!"
I can't say it times enough!
And hates and loathes a liquor
As he would a potion stuff.
And when I say my prayers at night)
As thankful as can be—
I pray for John the most of all—
Then GOLDEN REMEDY.

ONE DIVORCE TO 2 MARRIAGES BY END OF CENTURY

Missouri Professor Quotes Statistics to Justify His Prediction.

DANGER TO NATION

He Expresses Hope That American Family Is Now at Transition Stage.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 5.—Charles A. Ellwood, professor of sociology at the University of Missouri, figures that at the present rate of increase of divorces, before the end of the century one out of every two marriages will result in divorce. He has the figures to show the rapid increase that has been made. In 1885 American courts granted 25,000 divorces, as against 24,000 for all the rest of the civilized world. In 1906 the American courts granted 72,000, as against 40,000 for the rest of the world. In 40 years, therefore, the divorce increase has been three times as great as the population increase.

The ratio of divorce and marriage in America now, he says, is one to twelve. In France it is one to every 25, in Germany one to every 40 and in England one to every 400.

In Missouri, according to the professor's statistics, one divorce is granted to every eight marriages. In the State of Washington there is one divorce to every four marriages. In Colorado and Montana the ratio is one to five, and in Texas, Oklahoma and Indiana it is one to six.

Free Divorce Like Free Love.

Prof. Elwood prophesies a tremendous upheaval in America unless something is done to preserve the family ties. "Free divorce," he says, "is just the same as free love. It is just a swapping of families, and the free love advocates are much more dangerous to society than are anarchists."

He is not without hope, however. In an address he said:

"I believe the family is in a period of transition in America. I believe we are passing from the old to a new and higher type of family—a family in which there won't be a coercion, or authority, or consideration of property, in marrying. A plane will be reached where love will govern all. The family will be ethical, will be democratic. The equal rights of every member will be regarded and preserved.

"And in this the child will be taken more into consideration than it is now. The family of the future must rest on the rights of the child.

Native Born Lead Foreigners.

"Divorce seems to be, not essentially, but materially, an American institution. More native born Americans get divorces than there are foreigners or international couples; more Protestants than Catholics or Jews; more childless families obtain them than families where there are children and more city than rural residents.

"The cause for this, I believe, is that people are growing to look at marriage as a personal convenience. Industrial conditions and city life are much to blame, also. Fortunately, before there was such a thing as a factory, all the work was done at home. The family was kept together. There was no need for separation during the day.

"Now, with our great manufactories spouting streams of smoke on every side, with the father working one place, the son another, the daughter still another, and perhaps the mother in another, the family is lost track of. "Childless marriages are another cause. The number of childless marriages has increased from 2 per cent to 20 per cent since the beginning of the nineteenth century."

MORRISSEY BOY RUNS AWAY AGAIN; GONE EIGHT MONTHS

Mother Says Autumn Always Seems to Make Eddie a Wanderer at Heart.

Edward J. Morrissey Jr. of 302 South Broadway, the 14-year-old boy traveler, is again wandering on his second runaway trip within the last two years. Eight months ago Eddie started for the Christian Brothers' College, where he has been going to school for four years. His mother had been slightly sick and he inquired solicitously about her health and kissed her good-by.

That was the last seen of him by his family or schoolmates. His mother received one letter from him on May 14 last, from Washington, D. C., but no address was given in the letter, and the only information was that he probably would include Newport News in his tour of Eastern cities.

When he was 13 years old he ran away from home and was gone two months. He was finally found in Memphis after he had visited several Southern cities. He beat his way. Eddie's father, Edward J. Morrissey Sr., was the Democratic nominee for Sheriff at the time.

According to his mother, for long periods of time he is perfectly satisfied, attends school regularly, is obedient, and in every way is a model boy. But in the autumn the migratory spirit seems to stir him.
